

End Near in Senate Pre-Filibuster Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—An end to the pre-filibuster filibuster against the civil rights bill appeared to be in sight today as Southern senators cranked up for a 14th day of oratory against the House-passed measure.

Once again, Democratic leaders were voicing hope that a vote on bringing the bill to the floor can be held before the Easter recess begins late Thursday.

This is a vote all agree the Southern forces cannot win, but they have delayed it because it

Young Japanese Stabs U.S. Aide

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer was reported recovering in a Tokyo hospital tonight from a stab wound in the right thigh inflicted by a Japanese youth who police said was mentally deranged.

Police said the assailant, Norikazu Shiotani, 19, was near-sighted and told them he wanted to protest because the United States and Japanese governments did not do enough for people with poor sight.

The police said Shiotani had tried unsuccessfully earlier this year to set fire to a U.S. Embassy building to advance his cause.

The police said there apparently was no political motive

Baker Probe Near Finale

Tax 'Forgery' Claim Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bobby Baker probe may finally be heading into eclipse. Democrats have mowed down Republican demands for additional major witnesses and an accountant has abandoned his charge of income tax forgery.

The Democrats on the Senate Rules Committee overpowered the GOP minority Monday and refused to call White House aide Walter Jenkins, Democratic fund raiser Matt McCloskey and others to testify.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said their testimony would be irrelevant or repetitive of what has been heard already in its investigation of Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

The committee is exploring whether conflict of interest was involved as Baker, while a $19,600 a year Senate official, accumulated a fortune he estimated in excess of $2 million. The Democrats contend they have heard enough evidence already to provide the basis for a report to the Senate.

Milton L. Hauff, an accountant who charged last week that someone had forged his signature on some of Baker's income tax returns, visited the committee staff and abandoned the allegation. He told newsmen later the word "forgery" had been "an unfortunate choice of words" in the sworn statement he had given the senators.

All that was involved, Hauff said, was a "very minor discrepancy" which resulted in Baker collecting an additional $11.25 in a $4,420.20 income tax refund for 1961. Hauff said he had talked with Edward Bennett Williams, Baker's counsel, and had been given a copy of the original returns he prepared and signed for Baker.

He said that as he understands it, Baker later thought of another deduction, rewrote the tax return and that someone signed Hauff's name to it but evidently had made no effort to make the handwriting resemble Hauff's.

Hauff said he would have signed the new figures had he been asked to do so.

Peter Lorre Dies at 59 Of Stroke

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Peter Lorre, whose soft-boiled egg eyes and whiny voice made him one of the movies' most popular heavies, is dead, victim of a stroke.

The body of the 59-year-old Hungarian actor was found beside his bed Monday by a housekeeper who came to clean his apartment. He had suffered from high blood pressure for years.

Since 1927, Lorre had chilled movie audiences the world over as a master portrayer of the psychopathic killer. Off screen, he was gentle, witty, well-read and the most gregarious and fun loving of men.

Actor Vincent Price, who co-starred with Boris Karloff and Lorre in "Comedy of Errors," called Lorre's death a tragedy.

Shori and round, Lorre for years adhered to the principle of eating and drinking as one pleases—and absolutely no physical exercise.

A scare in 1959 — when high blood pressure and a sunstroke almost cost him his life in Spain — had slowed him some but not too much.

Soviet Influence Strong In Cuba, Visitor Finds

Editor's note—how Cuba looks to a European visitor is reported in this dispatch from one of a group of West German tourists who spent three weeks on the island. The writer is a picture editor in the Frankfurt bureau of The Associated Press.

By PETER HILLEBRECHT

HAVANA (AP)—A cool north-west wind sweeps a copy of the Moscow newspaper Izvestia under the feet of the few tourists on Cuba's famous Varadero Beach.

The heavy, choking odor of Russian tobacco hangs over leather chairs in the lobby of the Hotel Varadero Internacional. Through the swaying palms on a starlit March night, a huge red star blinks on the hotel roof.

On the eastern outskirts of Havana—in their own "ghetto" skyscraper—live Russian and East European technicians, engineers and experts.

These are symbols of Soviet influence in Cuba. There are others—Communist trucks and buses, an occasional Soviet made patrol boat equipped with rockets along the northern coast, Cuban soldiers and militiamen with East bloc weapons.

There is no doubt of the growing Communist influence.

But Cuba does not give the same police state impression as, say, Communist East Berlin.

To a German, accustomed to military order and perfection, what military atmosphere exists in Cuba strikes one like a comic opera. It all is so casual. It all seems a bit sloppy, a trifle unreal.

But the Soviet influence is real enough. You can see it clearly in Havana harbor.

"There are freighters from the Soviet Union and East Germany unloading crates and cases.

Women Fliers Delayed on World Trips

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—The little lady with world-wide plans watched and waited for a break in Atlantic Ocean weather today.

Jerrie Mock was itching to fly to the Azores Islands, but weather men did not give her much hope before Wednesday.

That 2,200-mile cross-ocean flight is to be the second leg of the Ohio housewife-aviatrix planned flight around the world. She is hoping to set distance and time records for her type of single-engine propeller-driven plane while doing it—solo.

The 38-year-old mother of three from the Columbus, Ohio, suburb of Bexley arrived in Bermuda Thursday. Radio trouble held up her takeoff, then the weather.

And in Paramaribo, Surinam, Mrs. Joan Merriam Smith ran into more mechanical trouble today. It caused her to delay her departure for Natal, Brazil, the next stop on her solo around-the-world flight. She is a Navy wife from Long Beach, Calif.

Mechanics were investigating a possibly leaky gas tank on her twin-engine Piper Cub Apache. Monday, they replaced the sparkplugs and worked on the magneto.

First Lady Visits 'Bama Space Center

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson flew to the Marshall Space Flight Center today and declared she is proud of the part Alabama and the South are playing in the nation's space program.

"The South has hitched its wagon to a star," she told an airport welcoming party.

Space officials and civic and community leaders joined in greeting the President's wife, who came for a look at America's man-on-the-moon project.

Mrs. Johnson came here to tour the 1,700-acre sprawling space center and see a dramatic static test-firing of the huge Saturn and F1 rocket engines that are part of the Apollo moon project.

The dawn-to-dusk, jam-packed schedule is a grueling one for the 51-year-old First Lady. It includes three speeches.

Mrs. Johnson reserved a noon-time respite period, though, for a very personal reunion with 37 of her Alabama kinsfolk. The First Lady's mother and father, the late Thomas Jefferson and Minnie Patillo Taylor, were born in Autauga County, Ala. She invited those of her relatives who remain in the area to join her for a brief visit.

Portsmouth Food Chain Picketed

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The alleged refusal of a local grocery chain to hire a Negro cashier has led to peaceful picketing of a store in a largely Negro area of this Ohio River city.

Three to five pickets paraded at a Schaefer's Market Monday. Charles S. Smith, president of the local chapter of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, said the picketing will continue until the cashier is hired.

Smith said Schaefer promised to hire the cashier, but R. W. Hanes, the firm's personnel manager, denied this. Hanes said there are no vacancies at the picketed store and union regulations forbid the company to lay anybody off.

Gen. MacArthur's Illness Serious

WASHINGTON (AP)—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur was reported in serious condition today.

The 84-year-old general underwent emergency surgery Monday night at Walter Reed Hospital.

This forenoon, Walter Reed spokesmen passed on this report from Brig. Gen. Henry S. Murphy, hospital commandant: "He (MacArthur) is cognizant of his surroundings. He is talking. But he is seriously ill."

The general remains in the recovery room where "all facilities for intensive care are available," the hospital spokesman said. Asked what this meant, he agreed that it was where life-supporting equipment was immediately available.

MacArthur's family was at the hospital in the general's suite.

The general has an opening in his windpipe to aid in breathing, and a tube through his esophagus to retard bleeding there.

MacArthur, who is 84, received 16 pints of blood in transfusions in connection with internal bleeding which required the emergency operation.

But doctors reported shortly afterward that he was holding up well.

The six-hour emergency operation was performed Monday at Walter Reed Army Medical Center where the general had been making a satisfactory recovery from a March 6 gall bladder operation. His progress had been so good that early discharge was contemplated.

At 6 a.m. Monday, the hospital reported, severe upper gastro-intestinal hemorrhaging was detected and four hours later surgery was begun.

At the outset it was discovered that the bleeding was from ruptured veins in the esophagus, the tube which carries food from the throat to the stomach. Bleeding there is connected sometimes with an enlargement of the spleen, and that abdominal organ was removed. A tube was passed into the esophagus to control bleeding in that area.

The spleen is not necessary to life, but if diseased can threaten life. It produces white blood cells, stores red blood cells and appears to have some role in the body's disease-fighting mechanisms.

Sniper Kills Woman, 38

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A sniper's bullet killed a Negro woman and three men were wounded by gunfire Monday night, bringing tragedy into continued racial violence in and around Jacksonville.

A gun fired from a passing car brought death to Johnnie Mae Chappell, 36, mother of several children. She was shot as she walked along U.S. 1, northwest of the city limits.

Two white men and a Negro man were shot and wounded, none seriously.

The shootings and at least 10 fire bombings came while a parade of young Negroes went before City Judge John Santora and, in most cases, headed for $25 fines and seven-day terms at the city prison farm.

Virtually all the 140 defendants, arrested during a day of hit-and-run demonstrations and defiance of police orders to disperse, were charged with unlawful assembly.

More than 80 juveniles also were taken into custody. Those whose parents came for them were handed over.

The place where the violence first flared is an ancient two-story wooden building in a Negro section which houses a campaign sub-headquarters of Mayor Haydon Burns. He is one of six Democrats seeking the nomination for governor in May.

A fire there Monday night was the result of rags piled at the rear of the building and ignited, firemen said. Damage was estimated at $200. Sunday night, three kerosene filled bottles were smashed against the building but flames only scorched the structure.

Negroes were aroused against the mayor by a message he delivered on television and radio Saturday night pledging to halt selective sit-in demonstrations at downtown restaurants and hotels which have not integrated.

Xenia Racial Fuss Hearing Postponed

XENIA, Ohio (AP)—A hearing on motions to dismiss the cases of 108 persons arrested in connection with a racial demonstration has been postponed until April 15.

The arrests followed near-rioting March 14 in the vicinity of the barber shop of Lewis Gegner in nearby Yellow Springs. Gegner has refused to cut Negroes' hair, saying he doesn't know how.

Judge Herman J. Weber of common pleas court granted the continuance at attorneys' request.

Western U.S. Pounded by Foul Winds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The western half of the nation was pounded with snow, rain, strong winds, mud slides and spiraling temperatures today as a storm moved northeast across the Dakotas.

In the eastern half, relatively mild temperatures and predominantly clear skies prevailed.

The storm contained winds which gusted up to 50 miles per hour in some areas, reducing visibility to less than one mile. A blizzard raged over the Red River Valley, drifting snow in the eastern Dakotas and western Minnesota.

Cold wave warnings were in effect for Minnesota, northern and western Iowa and eastern and south central Nebraska.

Temperatures plummeted far below zero in Montana. Lewistown reported the mercury at -18 and dropping. Cutbank reported -14, Great Falls -11 and Billings -8.

Sheridan, Wyo., was -3 and Dickinson, N.D., -1.

Another storm gained momentum over the Nevada-Utah area and heavy snows were forecast for the area. Livestock owners in Minnesota, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Montana and the Dakotas were warned to protect their animals.

Flagstaff, Ariz., reported 3 inches of new snow, bringing the accumulation to 14 inches.

Finn Given Nod As Cyprus Referee

GENEVA (AP)—The Greek, Turkish and British governments today approved the nomination of former Finnish Premier Sakari S. Tuomioja as U.N. mediator for the Cyprus dispute.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant needed approval only from the feuding Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities before making the appointment, and this was expected because of the Greek and Turkish acceptance of Tuomioja.

The Finnish politician-diplomat, who is now the country's ambassador to Sweden, reportedly agreed to serve as mediator for the bitter dispute if all parties accepted him.

LBj Outlines His Views on Keeping Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson said today a general war would be impossible in this nuclear age, and that nations must follow "reasoned agreement instead of ready aggression" in dealing with global problems.

Departing from his prepared text in addressing a labor convention, Johnson said some people often urge him to send in troops when an international crisis flares.

"There may have been a time that the commander in chief could order soldiers to march," at the first sign of a crisis, he said.

But, he said, "The world has changed and so has the method of dealing with disruptions of the peace."

Mentioning some current world trouble spots, Johnson said he hoped some agreement can be worked out with Panama over the Panama Canal dispute, and is hopeful that civil strife on the island of Cyprus could soon be ended by agreement.

In Cuba, he said, a crisis was averted when the water to the Guantanamo naval base was cut off by Fidel Castro's regime.

This was done he said, "Not by a battalion of Marines bayonets... Instead we sent a single admiral over to cut it off."

By cutting off the water line into the U.S. Naval Base, Johnson said, "A source of danger had been removed." The naval base is now being supplied with water by tankers.

Speaking of Viet Nam, Johnson said divergent voices urge various courses such as broadening the war against Communist guerrillas, more appeasement or even retreat.

Johnson said "We stand ready to help the Vietnamese preserve their independence... and keep them from being engulfed by Communism."

Johnson, speaking before the Building and Construction Trades Department of the AFL-CIO, said:

End Near in Senate Pre-Filibuster Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—An end to the pre-filibuster fight against the civil rights bill appeared to be in sight today as Southern senators cranked up for a 14th day of oratory against the House-passed measure.

Once again, Democratic leaders were voicing hope that a vote on bringing the bill to the floor can be held before the Easter recess begins late Thursday.

This is a vote all agree the Southern forces cannot win, but they have delayed it because it gives each of the 19 Dixie senators opposed to civil rights legislation a chance to make two speeches tell the country why.

Since March 9, when the talkathon began, two Southerners have spoken daily.

Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, an assistant Republican floor leader for the bill, said he expects to vote for cloture to shut off debate once he becomes convinced that opponents of the bill had been given a full chance to air their views.

On the Senate floor seldom more than a half dozen of the 100 members sit around at any time to listen to the long and often legalistic speeches.

What exchanges there have been between proponents and opponents of the House-passed civil rights bill are couched in such gentlemanly language and soothing tones it's sometimes hard to tell they are fighting at all.

As a spectacular, the civil rights debate wouldn't last long on Broadway. With all the parliamentary devices Southern opponents have in store, the controversy is due for a long run in the Senate.

Those senators who do sit around and listen to the debate are, for the most part, at their duty posts. Both sides have lined up team captains who take turns watching out for their interests.

It's not like the old days when senators, filibustering against civil rights, talked about everything under the sun, including their favorite recipes.

The speeches so far have been germane to the issue. But they have, in many cases, embraced long quotations from the Supreme Court on constitutional questions, which, however enlightening they may be for congressmen furnish dull fare for tourists.

Occasionally a senator will sit at his desk signing his mail as the talk goes on. He may read a newspaper or maybe nod, briefly.

The bulk of the members show up only when a quorum of 51 senators is demanded. Once the quorum call is answered, practically all of the senators speed back to their offices.

For the assault, President Kennedy's appointment in 1961 of the popular, Japanese-speaking ambassador was widely hailed in Japan because of Reischauer's scholarly knowledge of Asia.

It was the first assault on an American ambassador to Japan in more than a century of diplomatic relations.

The thin, sullen-faced youth climbed the embassy wall and plunged a six-inch blade into the 53-year-old ambassador as he came out of the embassy chancery on his way to lunch.

The ambassador was given blood transfusions to compensate for heavy loss of blood. After the wound was closed X-rays were taken to determine whether the missing tip of the blade was lodged in the leg. The photographs did not show it.

Quick thinking and swift action by John Ferchak, 40, an official in the embassy's commercial section, may have saved Reischauer's life.

Ferchak, from Jersey City, N.J., heard Reischauer say, "Who is that man?" and then saw that he carried a knife.

Grabbing Shiotani from the back, Ferchak pushed him to the floor, forced the knife from his hand, then called for help.

Reischauer said, "I am bleeding, call a doctor." Ferchak helped him to a seat. Whipping off his tie, Ferchak used it as a tourniquet to stop the flow of blood, then got a scarf from one of the secretaries to make another tourniquet.

The ambassador, still conscious, was rushed to the hospital operating table. Three hours later his Japanese-born wife, Haru, issued a statement, saying that her husband was "making a good recovery" and was grateful for the "warm and spontaneous sympathy" from everyone.

Young Japanese Stabs U.S. Aide

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer was reported recovering in a Tokyo hospital tonight from a stab wound in the right thigh inflicted by a Japanese youth who police said was mentally deranged.

Police said the assailant, Norikazu Shiotani, 19, was nearsighted and told them he wanted to protest because the United States and Japanese governments did not do enough for people with poor sight.

The police said Shiotani had tried unsuccessfully earlier this year to set fire to a U.S. Embassy building to advance his crusade.

The police said there apparently was no political motive

Baker Probe Near Finale

Tax 'Forgery' Claim Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Bobby Baker probe may finally be heading into eclipse. Democrats have mowed down Republican demands for additional major witnesses and an accountant has abandoned his charge of income tax forgery.

The Democrats on the Senate Rules Committee overpowered the GOP minority Monday and refused to call White House aide Walter Jenkins, Democratic fund raiser Matt McCloskey and others to testify.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., said their testimony would be irrelevant or repetitive of what has been heard already in its investigation of Baker, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

The committee is exploring whether conflict of interest was involved as Baker, while a $19,600 a year Senate official, accumulated a fortune he estimated in excess of $2 million. The Democrats contend they have heard enough evidence already to provide the basis for a report to the Senate.

Milton L. Haft, an accountant who charged last week that someone had forged his signature on some of Baker's income tax returns, visited the committee staff and abandoned the allegation. He told newsmen later the word "forgery" had been "an unfortunate choice of words" in the sworn statement he had given the senators.

All that was involved, Haft said, was a "very minor discrepancy" which resulted in Baker collecting an additional $11.25 in a $4,420.20 income tax refund for 1961. Haft said he had talked with Edward Bennett Williams, Baker's counsel, and had been given a copy of the original returns he prepared and signed for Baker.

He said that as he understands it, Baker later thought of another deduction, rewrote the tax return and that someone signed Haft's name to it but evidently had made no effort to make the handwriting resemble Haft's.

Haft said he would have signed the new figures had he been asked to do so.

obligation "And the people of the world expect more from the strongest nation on earth than just a show of brute force."

On the domestic front, Johnson asked the building trades unions to help vanquish unemployment, poverty and "their ancient ally—discrimination."

"You are builders — and I ask your help in building the kind of America we can build," Johnson said.

The President addressed the Building and Construction Trades Department of the AFL-CIO. It was his second address in two days to a major labor organization, and he repeated some of the themes sounded when he spoke Monday to the United Auto Workers Convention in Atlantic City, N.J.

Johnson said the 1946 commitment to full employment for every American needing a job, by act of Congress, still stands but it is unfulfilled. He said he will not be satisfied until it is. Not only did Johnson give another push to his war on poverty, but he also pounded away again for medical care for the elderly through the Social Security system, a national food stamp plan, extension of the minimum wage law to millions now uncovered, and the strengthening of unemployment insurance.

Johnson said the new, $11.5-billion tax cut law should create, directly and indirectly, two to three million jobs. The new housing bill pending in Congress, he said, is pointed home construction from 1.6 million in 1963 to two million by 1970.

The goal of full employment which Congress declared in a 1946 law means, the President said, providing enough new jobs to take care of the excessively high number of unemployed, plus enough to replace jobs lost to machines, plus enough for the 1.5 million people joining the labor force each year.

He said many of these new jobs must be and will be in construction.

Setting the scene for Johnson Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz told the building trades delegates Monday that the administration's economic opportunities legislation is "only one of the fronts on which we are attacking this problem" of poverty and unemployment.

He said both labor and business must join in the war on poverty and that "the ultimate answer to unemployment is jobs and more jobs."

Wirtz said youth - training programs under the anti-poverty program would be aimed at providing new job opportunities and not training young people to take existing jobs from family breadwinners.

In Atlantic City, Johnson told the auto workers that "our times require that here at home we pursue a warm-hearted war, a war of compassion for the well being of all the people."

He also warned that "we must not choke off our needed and speedy economic expansion by a revival of the price - wage spiral."

Ohio Granted $250,000 in Flood Relief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio received an initial allocation today of $250,000 in federal funds for flood disaster relief.

President Johnson made the allocation known in a telegram to Gov. James A. Rhodes.

"As you requested," the President said, "I have declared a major disaster . . . in those areas of the state of Ohio adversely affected by severe storms and flooding beginning on or about March 4."

The President said the Office of Emergency Planning, which made the initial allocation, would be authorized to provide supplemental allocations if necessary. The disaster area covers 44 counties designated by Rhodes as in need of aid.

The U.S. Army Engineers estimated total damage from the flood at $106 million.

Hedges Chapel Methodist Church will have a Candlelight Service of Holy Communion 7:30 p. m. Good Friday.

17 Freight Cars Stage Runaway

POMEROY, Wash. (AP) — A string of 17 freight cars broke loose from a Union Pacific switch engine in this small southeast Washington community Monday night, sparking a 16-mile chase by railroad workers and law enforcement officers.

Washington State Police said the empty cars reached speeds of 50 to 60 miles per hour before Pomeroey depot agent Bill McCrea managed to halt them at Starbuck, Wash.

McCrea chased the runaway cars in his auto, passed them, stopped his car, then jumped aboard after the train slowed to about 20 miles an hour. He stopped it by setting hand brakes on the cars.

30,000 Bolivians Join Mass 'March to Sea'

LA PAZ, Bolivia, (AP) — About 30,000 Bolivians led by President Victor Paz Estenssoro took part in a "march to the sea" Monday to publicize this landlocked nation's demand for a port on the Pacific.

Bolivia wants a port from Chile, which took Bolivia's sea-coast after a war in 1879. Chile has rejected the Bolivian demand and diplomatic relations between the two countries are broken.

James Cochenour Admitted to Berger

James Cochenour, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cochenour of Williamsport, was admitted to Berger Hospital for observation last night after he had been struck by an auto in Williamsport.

John L. Smith, 16, Williamsport told Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley the Cochenour youth ran in front of the auto he was driving. He said he could not stop in time to avoid striking him.

Authorities at Berger Hospital today reported the youngster was in "fair" condition. He sustained a head injury.

New Kennedy Coins Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of half-dollars bearing the likeness of John F. Kennedy go into circulation today through the Treasury in Washington and banks across the nation.

Twenty-six million of the new half-dollars are available for distribution and about 65 million more will be circulated before the end of the year. Unless Congress changes the law the mint will turn them out for 25 years or longer.

The 50-cent piece will replace the Benjamin Franklin half-dollar, which was minted from April 1948 until the end of last year. The first coins in the new series were struck Feb. 11 at the Denver and Philadelphia mints. The Kennedy coin was authorized by a law enacted last Dec. 30.

Buy List Add Scheduled for Distribution

The Defense Construction Supply Center (DCSC), a field activity of the Defense Supply Agency will soon distribute their new Commodity Buy List Supplement.

These supplements will be sent to industrial suppliers throughout the United States and Canada in April 1964, and will be available at the DCSC Business Fair which will be held in Columbus on April 8-10.

This new publication supplements the original Commodity Buy List of May 1963, and contains an additional 64 federal supply classes not previously listed. It consists of a listing which represents over 250,000 different items purchased for the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps. These items were formerly purchased by the Defense Automotive Supply Center, Detroit, Mich., and the U.S. Army Mobility Support Center, Columbus.

The new supplement contains 14 federal supply classes of automotive supplies and 46 federal supply classes of repair parts and miscellaneous items. Of the latter, DCSC has retail management responsibility for only the Department of the Army classes. The DCSC purchasing mission now totals over 266,000 items and 98 Federal Supply Classes. The annual buy program represents $175 million.

Officials at the Cussin & Fearn Store W. Main St., told city police yesterday that a stereo record player was missing. They said the unit apparently was taken Saturday.

4-Year-Old Hit by Auto

James Cochenour Admitted to Berger

James Cochenour, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cochenour of Williamsport, was admitted to Berger Hospital for observation last night after he had been struck by an auto in Williamsport.

John L. Smith, 16, Williamsport told Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley the Cochenour youth ran in front of the auto he was driving. He said he could not stop in time to avoid striking him.

Authorities at Berger Hospital today reported the youngster was in "fair" condition. He sustained a head injury.

New Kennedy Coins Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of half-dollars bearing the likeness of John F. Kennedy go into circulation today through the Treasury in Washington and banks across the nation.

Twenty-six million of the new half-dollars are available for distribution and about 65 million more will be circulated before the end of the year. Unless Congress changes the law the mint will turn them out for 25 years or longer.

The 50-cent piece will replace the Benjamin Franklin half-dollar, which was minted from April 1948 until the end of last year. The first coins in the new series were struck Feb. 11 at the Denver and Philadelphia mints. The Kennedy coin was authorized by a law enacted last Dec. 30.

Buy List Add Scheduled for Distribution

The Defense Construction Supply Center (DCSC), a field activity of the Defense Supply Agency will soon distribute their new Commodity Buy List Supplement.

These supplements will be sent to industrial suppliers throughout the United States and Canada in April 1964, and will be available at the DCSC Business Fair which will be held in Columbus on April 8-10.

This new publication supplements the original Commodity Buy List of May 1963, and contains an additional 64 federal supply classes not previously listed. It consists of a listing which represents over 250,000 different items purchased for the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps. These items were formerly purchased by the Defense Automotive Supply Center, Detroit, Mich., and the U.S. Army Mobility Support Center, Columbus.

The new supplement contains 14 federal supply classes of automotive supplies and 46 federal supply classes of repair parts and miscellaneous items. Of the latter, DCSC has retail management responsibility for only the Department of the Army classes. The DCSC purchasing mission now totals over 266,000 items and 98 Federal Supply Classes. The annual buy program represents $175 million.

New Job Total Said Only Yardstick Of Rhodes State Development Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—“I don’t care how you cut the cake, the total number of people employed is the only way to evaluate this program.”

That is the view of George E. Wilson, director of Gov. James A. Rhodes industrial development program for Ohio.

Rhodes terms more employment the way to win his war on poor relief, juvenile delinquency, school dropouts, discrimination, mental illness and other social ills.

Barely a year into a four-year term, the Republican governor has staked his political future on the success of his program for “total economic development” of Ohio under a balanced budget without new or increased taxes.

Wilson, a bug on charts and statistics, lists a net gain of 44,000 jobs in all lines for Ohio last year, more than the increase from 1957 to 1963.

His total includes 15,600 new manufacturing jobs, nearly double last year’s gain in that category, for an estimated boost in personal income of about $100 million a year.

Added employment came from 404 new plants, quadruple the starts in the previous year, he says, and 1,631 expansions involving a total of more than $586 million in new capital investment, about equal to combined 1961-62 amounts.

Wilson stresses that the gains came without state financial inducements, such as offered by 33 other states, and predicts they will spur when Ohio can compete on that basis.

Ohio’s Supreme Court declared unconstitutional a multi-million dollar industrial loan program devised by Rhodes, but the governor and Wilson promptly promised another to help woo more industry.

Wilson, barely turned 41, covers a lot of territory in his $18,000-a-year job without appearing to hurry. His voice and manner remain composed regardless of the press of callers, conferences, long hours at his desk and longer hours out “selling” Ohio industrially. Dark-haired and slender, Wilson has a quick smile and an air of quiet enthusiasm that is contagious.

He favors dark sports coats and ties, likes golf and handball. But he hasn’t had much time for recreation since coming to Columbus from Akron where he was executive director of the Area Development Committee.

A native of Barnesboro, Pa., Wilson saw service in World War II and graduated from Akron University, where he met his wife, Charlene. They have four children ranging from 13 to 1½ years in age.

Wilson became head of Ohio’s new Department of Development last June. Before then he headed the old state Department of Industrial and Economic Development, which the legislature scrapped for Rhodes’ program. Brimming with ideas, Wilson trebled the size of his old staff and payroll to more than 70 persons drawing about $34,000 a month. Nearly half the department’s employees are technicians or have development experience.

His department recently took over the 10th floor of the big State Office Building, bringing together divisions scattered over the downtown area. The Tax Department and Board of Tax Appeals moved to rented quarters.

Wilson says “togetherness” of his six divisions helps Ohio offer a so-called custom service to industries with specific requirements for a site in a particular area or anywhere in the state.

The divisions specialize in financing, sales, information, research, economic research and planning. Advising the department is a 25-member Development Council, composed of top-business officials serving without pay. Council president is Barton Holl, president and general manager of Logan Clay Products Co., Logan. A coordinator of atomic development also serves as a governor’s aide on nuclear aero-space development.

The department has opened a Washington office and plans others in New York and other major cities.

Wilson’s walnut-paneled office here was outfitted for use by former governors, but they preferred the Statehouse. Behind Wilson’s uncluttered desk is a map of Ohio inlaid with wood from all 88 counties of the state. It used to be the tax commissioner’s office.

“Profit Is Not A Dirty Word in Ohio,” reads a framed slogan used in a $12,000 full page advertisement in the Wall Street Journal last year to advertise what Wilson calls the most favorable industrial climate in the nation. A second ad called attention to a voter-approved $250 million bond issue for higher education capital improvements.

Another wall decoration is “Mr. Gohio,” an animated cartoon figure dreamed up by Wilson to identify the state’s economic effort. The cartoon, official state bird, has been drawn with arms and legs on a red body clad in jacket and bow tie.

To help generate a good industrial climate, Wilson, Rhodes and other officials travel the state to address “Industry Appreciation” dinners arranged by chambers of commerce and development groups.

Another promotion features a series of trips in a DC-3 plane leased by the state at $3000 a month, plus $10 a flight mile, to invite out-of-state industry into Ohio. The aerial junkets by local C. of C. officials, developers and industrial leaders usually are led by Rhodes, Wilson or Lt. Gov. John W. Brown.

Dubbed “Rhodes Raiders”, they already have visited New York, Atlanta, Birmingham, Knoxville, Detroit, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Scheduled trips include Pittsburgh March 25-26, Richmond, Raleigh and Washington April 1-2, St. Louis April 8-9, Philadelphia April 23-24, Houston and New Orleans May 6-8, Louisville May 13-14, Chicago May 20-21, Buffalo and Toronto May 27-28, Boston June 3-4 and Indianapolis July 30-31.

Wilson said numerous good prospects were found on trips already made and many other “good prospects” lined up. But he cautioned that the extent of results probably won’t be fully known for six months to a year and a half.

He estimated that about 30 per cent of calls made are to home offices of companies with facilities in Ohio to offer them help.

Although the state’s highest court stripped from a seven-man Development Financing Commission all authority to float multi-million dollar bond issues for industrial loans, Wilson says with customary aplomb that a dozen other major factors figure in selection of plant sites.

He said they include taxation, transportation, markets, labor supply, community plans and cultural amenities, education facilities, utilities together with such things as topography and climate.

Wilson asserts that state financing is most helpful in locating small and medium companies with growth potential but having little capital after investing in land and plant.

“A company will reach a point where it must go forward or go out of business,” Wilson explains. “At that point they are susceptible to offers of other states.”

The development director counters criticism that industry brought in from other states increases competition for home plants.

“Two of every three new jobs created and about 60 per cent of all new capital investment dollars,” he says, “are the result of expansion of existing facilities—whether in Ohio or elsewhere.”

“People talk about department spending. Total allocations represent only .08 per cent of the state’s annual billion dollar budget, about eight cents a person annually.”

Many development agencies with staffs of four to seven have annual budgets of $300,000, nearly half the department’s allocation, he adds.

Factory financing help is available in Ohio from about 80 community improvement corporations, organized locally on a non-profit basis. There are similar number of development corporations, organized for profit, which develop industrial parks and erect and lease buildings.

“Selling” Ohio to industry is not glamorous, Wilson avers. “It is hard, persistent, continuous work. We have to sell Ohio just like you sell soap or anything else.”

“You have to chase that girl I call LOA—short for law of averages.”

“If you knock on enough doors often enough and present the facts, you will get your share of business.”

“That is what we are trying to do. Anything less than that will be unsuccessful.”

Wilson credits cooperation of a local community with the state and others for preventing loss of a Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. plant to Michigan. Because of those efforts, the plant went to Logan.

Similar efforts, he says, induced the Jervis B. Webb Co., a metal fabricating concern, to move from Michigan to Mount Vernon, Ohio, adding about 500 jobs to Ohio’s total.

Peter Eckrich and Sons planned to build in Fort Wayne, Ind. But, through Ohio efforts, the firm located in Fremont where about 1,500 will be employed in meat processing, Wilson said.

Pillsbury Chemical Co. of Minneapolis picked Ohio over Virginia and will employ about 700 in a plant at Painesville, he added.

And Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. will employ about 1,200 in a plant at Delaware, selected after Ohio supplied the firm with specifics on 30 to 40 possible locations with the help of local groups.

Wilson concedes that plants move out of Ohio. But he cites the net gain as evidence of successful Buckeye operations.

Another indication to department officials is a string of requests by mail and in person for details on Ohio’s industrial development program. They come from various state officials, chambers of commerce and development groups.

“The Milwaukee Journal is sending a man down in April,” he adds.

NAZI TORTURE MACHINE DEMONSTRATED—Paul Schedel, 67, prosecution witness and a former inmate of the Nazis’ World War II Auschwitz death camp in Poland, uses a doll to demonstrate a scale model of a whipping device at the war crimes trial in Frankfurt, Germany. The machine’s inventor, Wilhelm Boger, a former Gestapo man, is one of 22 men being tried for helping to kill millions of persons.

Car, Sleeping Girl Said ‘Stolen’

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Patrolman John Combs stopped a car last weekend that had turned the wrong way into a one-way street.

He only advised the driver of his mistake, thinking nothing of a little girl he saw sleeping in the back seat.

About 10 minutes later, patrolman Ernest Pence was stopped by Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Fink of Preble County, who reported their car stolen, with their daughter, Karen, 8, asleep in the back seat.

The Finks said the car was taken while they went into a candy store with another daughter, Kathy, 10. Karen was left in the car.

Pence reported the theft to headquarters. Combs heard the message and went back to where he had stopped the wrong way driver.

He found the car. The driver had fled.

But still sleeping in the back seat was Karen, unharmed and unaware of what had happened.

Middletown Boy, 10, Admits Setting Blaze

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—A $20,000 fire at Beatty’s Electronics Shop Monday was caused by a 10-year-old boy, authorities say.

The boy admitted setting fire to some waste paper outside the shop as he went by on his way to school, officials said.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, March 24, the 84th day of 1964. There are 282 days left in the year.

Today’s highlight in history:

On this date in 1882, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow died. Longfellow belongs to that golden age of American poetry in which Oliver Wendell Holmes, James Russell Lowell, Ralph Waldo Emerson and others gave the world some of its most beautiful verse.

AMA’s View On Cigarette Warning Hit

PALM BEACH SHORES, Fla. (AP) — A top-ranking surgeon said Monday the American Medical Association is derelict in its duty for failing to urge that all cigarette packages and advertising carry a health hazard warning.

Dr. Alton Ochsner, emeritus professor of surgery, Tulane University, and a pioneer in indicting cigarette smoking as a major cause of lung cancer, made the statement in addressing the sixth annual seminar for scientists sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

He did so in commenting on a letter sent to the Federal Trade Commission recently by Dr. F.J.L. Blasingame, executive vice president of the AMA.

In the letter, Dr. Blasingame said that Congress, not the FTC should decide on any limitations on cigarette advertising, and that warning labels — as advocated by the FTC — would not do much good because people already are aware of the alleged hazards of smoking.

“Doctors should take the lead,” said Dr. Ochsner. “This is a health problem.”

Rhodes terms more employment the way to win his war on poor relief, juvenile delinquency, school dropouts, discrimination, mental illness and other social ills.

Barely a year into a four-year term, the Republican governor has staked his political future on the success of his program for “total economic development” of Ohio under a balanced budget without new or increased taxes.

Wilson, a bug on charts and statistics, lists a net gain of 44,000 jobs in all lines for Ohio last year, more than the increase from 1957 to 1963.

His total includes 15,600 new manufacturing jobs, nearly double last year’s gain in that category, for an estimated boost in personal income of about $100 million a year.

Added employment came from 404 new plants, quadruple the starts in the previous year, he says, and 1,631 expansions involving a total of more than $586 million in new capital investment, about equal to combined 1961-62 amounts.

Wilson stresses that the gains came without state financial inducements, such as offered by 33 other states, and predicts they will spur when Ohio can compete on that basis.

Ohio’s Supreme Court declared unconstitutional a multi-million dollar industrial loan program devised by Rhodes, but the governor and Wilson promptly promised another to help woo more industry.

Wilson, barely turned 41, covers a lot of territory in his $18,000-a-year job without appearing to hurry. His voice and manner remain composed regardless of the press of callers, conferences, long hours at his desk and longer hours out “selling” Ohio industrially. Dark-haired and slender, Wilson has a quick smile and an air of quiet enthusiasm that is contagious.

He favors dark sports coats and ties, likes golf and handball. But he hasn’t had much time for recreation since coming to Columbus from Akron where he was executive director of the Area Development Committee.

A native of Barnesboro, Pa., Wilson saw service in World War II and graduated from Akron University, where he met his wife, Charlene. They have four children ranging from 13 to 1½ years in age.

Wilson became head of Ohio’s new Department of Development last June. Before then he headed the old state Department of Industrial and Economic Development, which the legislature scrapped for Rhodes’ program.

Brimming with ideas, Wilson trebled the size of his old staff and payroll to more than 70 persons drawing about $34,000 a month. Nearly half the department’s employees are technicians or have development experience.

His department recently took over the 19th floor of the big State Office Building, bringing together divisions scattered over the downtown area. The Tax Department and Board of Tax Appeals moved to rented quarters.

Wilson says “togetherness” of his six divisions helps Ohio offer a so-called custom service to industries with specific requirements for a site in a particular area or anywhere in the state.

The divisions specialize in financing, sales, information, research, economic research and planning. Advising the department is a 25-member Development Council, composed of top-business officials serving without pay. Council president is Barton Holl, president and general manager of Logan Clay Products Co., Logan. A coordinator of atomic development also serves as a governor’s aide on nuclear aero-space development.

The department has opened a Washington office and plans others in New York and other major cities.

Wilson’s walnut-paneled office here was outfitted for use by former governors, but they preferred the Statehouse. Behind Wilson’s uncluttered desk is a map of Ohio inlaid with wood from all 88 counties of the state. It used to be the tax commissioner’s office.

“Profit Is Not A Dirty Word in Ohio,” reads a framed slogan used in a $12,000 full page advertisement in the Wall Street Journal last year to advertise what Wilson calls the most favorable industrial climate in the nation. A second ad called attention to a voter-approved $250 million bond issue for higher education capital improvements.

Another wall decoration is “Mr. Gohio,” an animated cartoon figure dreamed up by Wilson to identify the state’s economic effort. The cardinal, official state bird, has been drawn with arms and legs on a red body clad in jacket and bow tie.

To help generate a good industrial climate, Wilson, Rhodes and other officials travel the state to address “Industry Appreciation” dinners arranged by chambers of commerce and development groups.

Another promotion features a series of trips in a DC-3 plane leased by the state at $3000 a month, plus $10 a flight mile, to invite out-of-state industry into Ohio. The aerial junkets by local C. of C. officials, developers and industrial leaders usually are led by Rhodes, Wilson or Lt. Gov. John W. Brown.

Dubbed “Rhodes Raiders,” they already have visited New York, Atlanta, Birmingham, Knoxville, Detroit, Milwaukee, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Scheduled trips include Pittsburgh March 25-26, Richmond, Raleigh and Washington April 1-2, St. Louis April 8-9, Philadelphia April 23-24, Houston and New Orleans May 6-8, Louisville May 13-14, Chicago May 20-21, Buffalo and Toronto May 27-28, Boston June 3-4 and Indianapolis July 30-31.

Wilson said numerous good prospects were found on trips already made and many other “good prospects” lined up. But he cautioned that the extent of results probably won’t be fully known for six months to a year and a half.

He estimated that about 30 per cent of calls made are to home offices of companies with facilities in Ohio to offer them help.

Although the state’s highest court stripped from a seven-man Development Financing Commission all authority to float multi-million dollar bond issues for industrial loans, Wilson says with customary aplomb that a dozen other major factors figure in selection of plant sites.

He said they include taxation, transportation, markets, labor supply, community plans and cultural amenities, education facilities, utilities together with such things as topography and climate.

Wilson asserts that state financing is most helpful in locating small and medium companies with growth potential but having little capital after investing in land and plant.

“A company will reach a point where it must go forward or go out of business,” Wilson explains. “At that point they are susceptible to offers of other states.”

The development director counters criticism that industry brought in from other states increases competition for home plants.

“Two of every three new jobs created and about 60 per cent of all new capital investment dollars,” he says, “are the result of expansion of existing facilities—whether in Ohio or elsewhere.”

“People talk about department spending. Total allocations represent only .08 per cent of the state’s annual billion dollar budget, about eight cents a person annually.”

Many development agencies with staffs of four to seven have annual budgets of $300,000, nearly half the department’s allocation, he adds.

Factory financing help is available in Ohio from about 80 community improvement corporations, organized locally on a non-profit basis. There are similar number of development corporations, organized for profit, which develop industrial parks and erect and lease buildings.

“Selling” Ohio to industry is not glamorous, Wilson avers. “It is hard, persistent, continuous work. We have to sell Ohio just like you sell soap or anything else.”

“You have to chase that girl I call LOA—short for law of averages.”

“If you knock on enough doors often enough and present the facts, you will get your share of business.”

“That is what we are trying to do. Anything less than that will be unsuccessful.”

Wilson credits cooperation of a local community with the state and others for preventing loss of a Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. plant to Michigan. Because of those efforts, the plant went to Logan.

Similar efforts, he says, induced the Jervis B. Webb Co., a metal fabricating concern, to move from Michigan to Mount Vernon, Ohio, adding about 500 jobs to Ohio’s total.

Peter Eckrich and Sons planned to build in Fort Wayne, Ind. But, through Ohio efforts, the firm located in Fremont where about 1,500 will be employed in meat processing, Wilson said.

Pillsbury Chemical Co. of Minneapolis picked Ohio over Virginia and will employ about 700 in a plant at Painesville, he added.

And Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. will employ about 1,200 in a plant at Delaware, selected after Ohio supplied the firm with specifics on 30 to 40 possible locations with the help of local groups.

Wilson concedes that plants move out of Ohio. But he cites the net gain as evidence of successful Buckeye operations.

Another indication to department officials is a string of requests by mail and in person for details on Ohio’s industrial development program. They come from various state officials, chambers of commerce and development groups.

“The Milwaukee Journal is sending a man down in April,” he adds.

AMA’s View On Cigarette Warning Hit

PALM BEACH SHORES, Fla. (AP) — A top-ranking surgeon said Monday the American Medical Association is derelict in its duty for failing to urge that all cigarette packages and advertising carry a health hazard warning.

Dr. Alton Ochsner, emeritus professor of surgery, Tulane University, and a pioneer in indicting cigarette smoking as a major cause of lung cancer, made the statement in addressing the sixth annual seminar for scientists sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

He did so in commenting on a letter sent to the Federal Trade Commission recently by Dr. F.J.L. Blasingame, executive vice president of the AMA.

In the letter, Dr. Blasingame said that Congress, not the FTC should decide on any limitations on cigarette advertising, and that warning labels — as advocated by the FTC — would not do much good because people already are aware of the alleged hazards of smoking.

“Doctors should take the lead,” said Dr. Ochsner. “This is a health problem.”

Car, Sleeping Girl Said ‘Stolen’

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Patrolman John Combs stopped a car last weekend that had turned the wrong way into a one-way street.

He only advised the driver of his mistake, thinking nothing of a little girl he saw sleeping in the back seat.

About 10 minutes later, patrolman Ernest Pence was stopped by Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Fink of Preble County, who reported their car stolen, with their daughter, Karen, 8, asleep in the back seat.

The Finks said the car was taken while they went into a candy store with another daughter, Kathy, 10. Karen was left in the car.

Pence reported the theft to headquarters. Combs heard the message and went back to where he had stopped the wrong way driver.

He found the car. The driver had fled.

But still sleeping in the back seat was Karen, unharmed and unaware of what had happened.

What's this? American servicemen and their families in England aren't satisfied with their quarters in some of that country's stately homes?

These ancient houses are celebrated around the world for their beauty and elegance. Some date from the days of the first Elizabeth. Some before that.

American GIs who rent quarters in the mansions for from $53 to $75 a month, complained that the rooms are cold, the floor boards lose, the furniture, worn, the plumbing leaky, and there are mice in the ceilings.

To which the Oxford Rent Tribunal replied that many people would regard it as a privilege to live in such surroundings, that in old houses floor boards should not be expected to meet exactly, and that there's nothing unusual about a mouse or two in the ceiling. Besides, said the board for a clincher, the rent s c a l e doesn't take into account that the tenants are un-British.

Presumably, if it did the rates would be higher to compensate landlords for having to deal with complainers.

Only One Dream Is Dangerous

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

Success is the greatest danger to a man with only one dream.

The one-dream man, once he gains his goal, is imprisoned by his own achievement. Winning disillusion him. He is like Alexander the Great who, according to legend, drank himself to death because there didn't seem much else left worth doing.

Victory is always a menace to the one-track mind. It is a particular peril to the military mind. Adolf Hitler, who did and said many wrong things, was right on one point. That was when he complained that victory made his generals timid.

This has been true of most generals in most armies throughout history. Once they win they hesitate ever again to put themselves into a position where they might lose.

But success can be a major foe in any line of endeavor—to the businessman who makes only one financial coup, the actor who has only one outstanding role, the writer who has one good book in his system and then sits barren before his empty-minded typewriter.

It is multiplicity of dream, not singleness of goal that preserves youth.

Age, of course, is a hard thing to define. There are all kinds of ways to measure age. There is one's calendar age, one's mental age, one's emotional age, one's physiological age, the age one feels—and the age that other people estimate you to be.

There is also the problem of sometimes feeling young at night and like the grandfather of Methuselah in the morning. It's all rather complicated.

But there is a common point in many lives at which there is no doubt that youth says farewell and age says hello. This is when a man's desire to perform an excellence becomes less im-

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—A rise in interest rates seems likely this year in spite of the notable growth in savings which has pumped funds into the investment market.

The cost of borrowing has been going up in Europe and Japan, largely because increasing prosperity there has zoomed the demand for loans from both consumers and business. Also, wages and prices have gone up, and higher interest charges are a prime government weapon in fighting inflation.

A like rise in U.S. prosperity is widely anticipated as the federal tax cut effects spread through the economy.

In several industries union leaders are stressing that this year's wage demands will be stronger than last. Prices are still holding on most consumer goods, but are rising for some primary commodities and industrial materials.

Housing starts have been unusually strong this winter, pre-empting perhaps a real boom later this year. If so the demand for mortgage money may eat into the abundance of funds available.

Inflation hasn't been a force here for several years. Partly this was due to surplus productive capacity of industries, with attendant competition from domestic rivals, along with increasing competition from imports of foreign products.

Business expansion, therefore, has been moderate. Also, much of it has been financed from the internal funds of corporations—earnings from generally rising sales, and cash savings from relaxed depreciation rules that

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ALTHOUGH Cassidy's saloon was jam-packed all day, receipts kept falling and Cassidy finally concluded that his bartender, Mike, was pulling a fast one on him. By boring a peephole in the rear-framework of the bar, Cassidy soon discovered that every time a drink was paid for, Mike would toss the coin in the air and announce, "Heads, it goes to Cassidy. Tails I keep it." Amazingly, practically every toss came up tails.

One silver dollar, however, came up heads. "I'll make this one two out of three," declared the disgruntled bartender. Then the next toss came up heads too! "I see," nodded the bartender, "This is going to be a case of three out of five."

"Oh, no, you don't," hollered Cassidy, coming out of hiding. "I won that one fair and square!"

An exceedingly homely lady picked up a road map at an information center, and remarked dubiously, "I hope I won't go wrong." "With a map like that," the clerk assured her warmly, "I don't see how you can."

A little boy deposited two overdue books on the desk of a public library, and handed his past-due letter, plus the eighteen-cent fine called for, to the clerk. Then he asked, "Please, can I have the letter back? It's the first one I ever got!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Patients who are able to speak freely about their hernias have an excellent chance of being relieved of the troubles and symptoms that accompany them.

The false stigma of a hernia or rupture has hindered the control and repair of this condition. Since most hernias occur in the groin, "unmentionable" significance was attached to them.

Now what exactly is a hernia? It is a defect in the protective muscle wall through which protrudes a loop of intestine, tissue or an organ that does not belong there.

There are many kinds of hernia that take their names from the body that is involved. There is the inguinal hernia in the groin, the hernia of the esophagus, an abdominal hernia, umbilical hernia, and incisional hernia (after an operation).

There are two major classes of hernia. The congenital hernia occurs before birth and may become apparent in infancy. The acquired hernia is found in adolescence or in adulthood.

By far the most common of all hernias is the inguinal one that occurs in the groin of both men and women. Many of these are produced by injury or excessive strain imposed on weakened muscles.

Lifting heavy objects, violent sneezing, coughing or even pregnancy adds tremendous pressure to weakened muscles. Sometimes small hernial openings may have existed for years without any symptoms.

Some occupations are particularly prone to the hazards of hernia. Sanitation workers, farmers, longshoremen who do not use mechanical lifters are constantly subject to this risk.

The real concern of hernias in the groin is the possibility that a small loop of intestine can be pushed through the enlarged hernial opening. When this occurs there is the danger that the intestine may become kinked and fixed in the opening.

Almost everyone who has a hernia knows about it. Usually there are some previous warnings of discomfort or swelling that should alert patients to the possibility of trouble.

Hernias are treated in two acceptable ways. First, a padded device, a truss, attached to a belt, exerts slight pressure over the hernia. This protective device prevents loops

Reflections on Power Vacuums By John Chamberlain

When the United States failed to back up the Free Cubans at the Bay of Pigs, Charles de Gaulle, rightly or wrongly, drew two conclusions. The first was that Americans, though verbally committed to come to the aid of their friends by virtue of NATO in Europe and the Monroe Doctrine in the western hemisphere, could not necessarily be counted on in a pinch. The second conclusion, which followed from the first, was that a power vacuum threatened in Latin America.

It is this second conclusion that explains the de Gaulle appearance in Mexico. The de Gaulle tour may not produce very much for the Mexicans are quite competent to take care of themselves in their relations with foreign powers. But when de Gaulle stood up in French Army uniform beside President Lopez Mateos of Mexico, it stirred old diplomatic hands to an ironic reminder. No important French official had appeared in Mexico in army uniform for important state purposes since Marshal Franco-Bazaine skedaddled out of the place a hundred years ago after the collapse of Emperor Louis Napoleon's dream of filling the Latin American power vacuum of 1861-65.

In that time of the American Civil War, the American President, Abraham Lincoln, had much less power to protect the western hemisphere than the U.S. has now. He would have had to take a Bay of Pigs if it had been presented to him. Unable to act, Lincoln merely brooded when the Emperor of the French sent Maximilian, the unemployed brother of the Hapsburg Emperor of Austria, to sit on a newly created throne in Mexico. Nevertheless, Lincoln was not in the habit of taking things lying down.

When someone asked him, "how about the French army in Mexico?" Lincoln spoke his mind. "I'm not exactly 'skered,'" he said, "but I don't like the looks of the thing. Napoleon has taken advantage of our weakness in our time of trouble, and has attempted to found a monarchy on the soil of Mexico in utter disregard of the Monroe Doctrine. My policy is to attend to only one trouble at a time. If we get well out of our present difficulties and restore the union, I propose to notify Louis Napoleon that it is about time to take his army out of Mexico. When that army is gone, the Mexicans will take care of Maximilian."

The Civil War continued while Lincoln still brooded about the power vacuum in tropical America. Always creative, Lincoln let an emissary, F. B. Blair make a visit behind the lines to the Confederate President Jefferson Davis. Blair's proposition to Davis was to call off the Civil War, put both the northern and southern troops under the command of Jeff Davis himself, and then turn the combined forces loose to throw Maximilian and his beautiful Empress Carlotta off the thrones of Mexico. The Blair mission failed, but after the Civil War was over the French took the hint and departed from this hemisphere.

Our ancestors of a hundred years ago, if they are now looking down upon us, must be amazed to see Khrushchev repeating the adventure of Louis Napoleon on the soil of present-day Cuba. And they must be equally amazed to see a modern French leader, Charles de Gaulle, concluding that Khrushchev can get away with it where the Emperor Louis Napoleon failed.

It is not necessarily written in the stars that de Gaulle's conclusion is correct. The U. S. may be up to its neck in troubles, but they are nothing so bad as a civil war. The story is that when the Cuban missile crisis was upon him, President Kennedy kept a card on his desk labelled "Berlin". He did not at the time have the information that Russia could not count on feeding itself in a war. Now that we have that information, we might do something to revive the spirit of Lincoln.

Watching Johnson on TV last week, I kept wondering where I had seen that veiled, half-suspicious, half don't-monkey-with-me look that greeted certain questions. It came to me much later that it was the look of Gary Cooper playing the sheriff in "High Noon." If a President capable of that look is goaded sufficiently by people who try to exploit a presumed Latin American power vacuum something might happen. Let us pray that it does.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A meeting was to be held in Memorial Hall in an effort to organize a unit of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

LAFF-A-DAY

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ALTHOUGH Cassidy's saloon was jam-packed all day, receipts kept falling and Cassidy finally concluded that his bartender, Mike, was pulling a fast one on him. By boring a peephole in the rear-framework of the bar, Cassidy soon discovered that every time a drink was paid for, Mike would toss the coin in the air and announce, "Heads, it goes to Cassidy. Tails I keep it." Amazingly, practically every toss came up tails.

One silver dollar, how-ever, came up heads. "I'll make this one two out of three," declared the disgruntled bartender. Then the next toss came up heads too! "I see," nodded the bartender, "This is going to be a case of three out of five."

"Oh, no, you don't," hollered Cassidy, coming out of hiding. "I won that one fair and square!"

An exceedingly homely lady picked up a road map at an information center, and remarked dubiously, "I hope I won't go wrong." "With a map like that," the clerk assured her warmly, "I don't see how you can."

A little boy deposited two overdue books on the desk of a public library, and handed his past-due letter, plus the eighteen-cent fine called for, to the clerk. Then he asked, "Please, can I have the letter back? It's the first one I ever got!"

The lowly New York Mets lost nine fewer games last year than they did in 1962 when they dropped a resounding 120. At that rate of progress they should get into pennant contention by the end of the century.

Patients who are able to speak freely about their hernias have an excellent chance of being relieved of the troubles and symptoms that accompany them.

The false stigma of a hernia or rupture has hindered the control and repair of this condition. Since most hernias occur in the groin, "unmentionable" significance was attached to them.

Now what exactly is a hernia? It is a defect in the protective muscle wall through which protrudes a loop of intestine, tissue or an organ that does not belong there.

There are many kinds of hernia that take their names body that is involved. There is the inguinal hernia in the from the particular part of the groin, hernia of the esophagus, an abdominal hernia, umbilical hernia, and incisional hernia (after an operation).

There are two major classes of hernia. The congenital hernia occurs before birth and may become apparent in infancy. The acquired hernia is found in adolescence or in adulthood.

By far the most common of all hernias is the inguinal one that occurs in the groin of both men and women. Many of these are produced by injury or excessive strain imposed on weakened muscles.

Lifting heavy objects, violent sneezing, coughing or even pregnancy adds tremendous pressure to weakened muscles. Sometimes small hernial openings may have existed for years without any symptoms.

Some occupations are particularly prone to the hazards of hernia. Sanitation workers, farmers, longshoremen who do not use mechanical lifters are constantly subject to this risk.

The real concern of hernias in the groin is the possibility that a small loop of intestine can be pushed through the enlarged hernial opening. When this occurs there is the danger that the intestine may become kinked and fixed in the opening.

Almost everyone who has a hernia knows about it. Usually there are some previous warn-ings of discomfort or swelling that should alert patients to the possibility of trouble.

Hernias are treated in two acceptable ways. First, a padded device, a truss, attached to a belt, exerts slight pressure over the hernia. This protective device prevents loops

When the United States failed to back up the Free Cubans at the Bay of Pigs, Charles de Gaulle, rightly or wrongly, drew two conclusions. The first was that Americans, though verbally committed to come to the aid of their friends by virtue of NATO in Europe and the Mon-roe Doctrine in the western hemisphere, could not necessarily be counted on in a pinch. The second conclusion, which followed from the first, was that a power vacuum threatened in Latin America.

It is this second conclusion that explains the de Gaulle ap-pearance in Mexico. The de Gaulle tour may not produce very much, for the Mexicans are quite competent to take care of themselves in their relations with foreign powers. But when de Gaulle stood up in French Army uniform beside President Lopez Mateos of Mex-ico, it stirred old diplomatic hands to an ironic reminder. No important French official had appeared in Mexico in army uniform for important state purposes since Marshal Franco-Bazaine skedaddled out of the place a hundred years ago after the collapse of Emperor Louis Napoleon's dream of fill-ing the Latin American power vacuum of 1861-65.

In that time of the American Civil War, the American Pres-ident, Abraham Lincoln, had much less power to protect the western hemisphere than the U.S. has now. He would have had to take a Bay of Pigs if it had been presented to him. Un-able to act, Lincoln merely brooded when the Emperor of the French sent Maximilian, the unemployed brother of the Hapsburg Emperor of Austria, to sit on a newly created throne in Mexico. Nevertheless, Lincoln was not in the habit of taking things lying down.

When someone asked him, "how about the French army in Mexico?" Lincoln spoke his mind. "I'm not exactly 'skeer-ed,'" he said, "but I don't like the looks of the thing. Napoleon has taken advantage of our weakness in our time of trouble, and has attempted to found a monarchy on the soil of Mexico in utter disregard of the Mon-roe Doctrine. My policy is to at-tend to only one trouble at a time. If we get well out of our present difficulties and restore the union, I propose to notify Louis Napoleon that it is about time to take his army out of Mexico. When that army is gone, the Mexicans will take care of Maximilian."

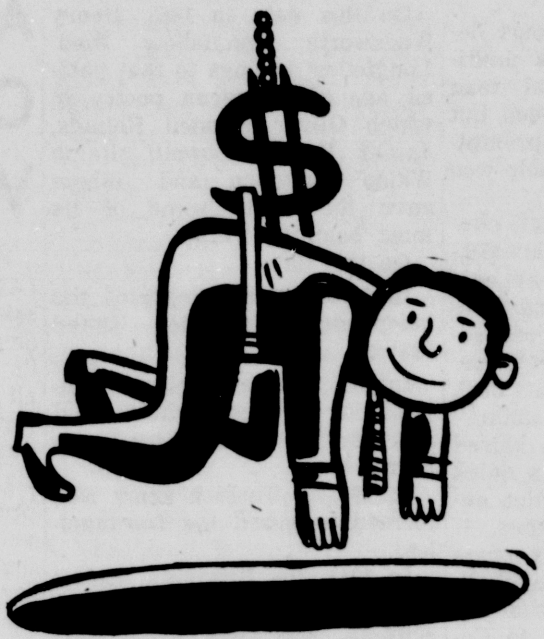

The Civil War continued while Lincoln still brooded about the power vacuum in tropical America. Always creative, Lin-coln let an emissary, F. B. Blair make a visit behind the lines to the Confederate President Jef-ferson Davis. Blair's proposition to Davis was to call off the Civil War, put both the northern and southern troops under the command of Jeff Davis himself, and then turn the combined forces loose to throw Maximilian and his beautiful Empress Car-lotta off the thrones of Mex-ico. The Blair mission failed, but after the Civil War was over the French took the hint and departed from this hemis-phere.

Our ancestors of a hundred years ago, if they are now looking down upon us, must be amazed to see Khrushchev repeating the adventure of Lou-is Napoleon on the soil of pres-ent-day Cuba. And they must be equally amazed to see a modern French leader, Charles de Gaulle, concluding that Khrushchev can get away with it where the Emperor Louis Na-poleon failed.

It is not necessarily written in the stars that de Gaulle's con-clusion is correct. The U. S. may be up to its neck in trou-bles, but they are nothing so bad as a civil war. The story is that when the Cuban missile crisis was upon him, President Kenne-dy kept a card on his desk la-belled "Berlin". He did not at the time have the information that Russia could not count on feeding itself in a war. Now that we have that information, we might do something to re-trieve the spirit of Lincoln.

Watching Johnson on TV last week, I kept wondering where I had seen that veiled, half-suspicious, half don't-monkey-with-me look that greeted cer-tain questions. It came to me much later that it was the look of Gary Cooper playing the sheriff in "High Noon." If a President capable of that look is goaded sufficiently by people who try to exploit a presumed Latin American power vacu-um something might happen. Let us pray that it does.

Science teachers at Logan Elm — Jean D. Mills, Georald Leist and Victory Pontius — assisted them. They were also responsible for all arrangements for the Science Fair.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration, lacking control over prices and wages, is trying in a gingerly way to nudge business and labor into keeping them down.

At the same time, President Johnson has urged Congress to vote a $545-million pay raise for 1.7 million government employees, even if the 535 Congress members hesitate to include themselves in the increase.

Johnson and his economic advisers, walking tip-toe in this prickly field where the government has no authority to forbid, are not telling business and labor flatly there should be no boosts.

What they seem to be saying in their anti-inflation efforts, often using a rather foggy prose, is that there should be no price-wage increases unless they are justified.

This leaves the door ajar, although Johnson can't do more than this, since a businessman anxious to raise a price or a union bent on higher wages will always argue a justification.

This is exactly what Johnson himself does in proposing an increase in government pay. He says failure to increase it would make more difficult the task of recruiting and keeping top flight people in government.

Two weeks ago in Congress, the House appeared to be in a rush to raise government salaries, including a $10,000 addition to the $22,500 now paid all members of House and Senate, a 44 per cent increase.

Every time one of its members sought to block this increase, the House brushed it aside, or rather it did the fast brushing so long as they were not voting in a roll call where each member's vote would be listed by name.

But when a roll call was forced on them, they suddenly killed the whole pay raise motion, for themselves and everybody else, by a vote of 222 to 184.

A few days later, Johnson wrote a letter to House Speaker John V. McCormack, D-Mass., proposing the House start all over again and raise government salaries.

He said Congress' hesitancy to give itself a raise was no reason for not giving the other federal employees a boost.

Every year, one of the most rubbery, and sometimes most incomprehensible, pieces of writing is contained in the annual report of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, issued in January.

This year the council noted that in the past three years there has been an "unusual degree of price stability" although a "somewhat upward drift in the prices of final purchases."

But, it said, from the beginning of 1962 to the end of 1963, prices had gone up only 4 per cent. It urged stability this year, without saying that there should be no increases at all.

It said the administration "will not hesitate to call public attention to major private decisions—by either business or labor—that seriously overstep noninflationary price and wage standards."

"It is the responsibility—and the determined purpose—of the administration to do all it properly can to promote the right outcome."

He warned against a price-wage spiral, but explained: "This administration has not undertaken and will not undertake to fix prices and wages in this economy. We have no intention of intervening in every labor dispute."

And while Johnson was talking in Atlantic City the chairman of his economic council, Walter Heller, was out in Detroit telling the Economic Club there: "It would be less than prudent not to keep an eye cocked on the price-wage front."

Clothes Dryer Features Many Merits

By ELEANOR ROSS

The average homemaker is said to lift over two tons of wet clothes up to her clothesline every year! That is, if she doesn't enjoy the convenience of a dryer in order to avoid such gymnastics.

Besides the obvious conservation of time and energy, a dryer has many other merits, so much so that it is surprising that many women have to be sold on the idea.

Dryers come in durable enamel-coated, galvanized steel with its non-corrosive steel base, or in a porcelain-on-steel finish. Both are easy to clean, impervious to scratches, cracks and dents, and, happily, come in a variety of colors. And you can get a steel cabinet to match the decorative finish of your dryer.

How nice it is that a dryer lets you forget the weather! It also turns your clothes out just as clean as they went in, since there is no street dirt, no dust, no soot inside the dryer to mar the wash — and who hasn't had snowy wash matted up while out on the line at some time or another?

And a dryer speeds up wash-day so that it actually saves money since you can reduce the family's clothes and household linens inventory.

There are two types of dryers — air flow and condenser. The air flow type heats circulating room air either by gas or electricity and requires venting to pass heat and moisture to the outside.

The condenser type is available only in the electric model, does not require venting and pumps the moisture removed from the air surrounding the clothes right down the sink or washtub drain, and therefore requires no additional plumbing. The new dryers are geared to perform many chores besides merely drying clothes.

For instance, you can remove wrinkles from garments by using only the wash-and-wear cycle, the last ten minutes on the dial. The same cycle also fluffs pillows and blankets.

Dryers let you partially dry clothes in preparing them for ironing, or if desired, the sprinkling system can be used to dampen clothes for ironing.

Some machines turn off automatically when the clothes are dry. Others let the user select the time cycle.

Many dryers have buzzers or bells that announce the end of the drying cycle. This reminds the homemaker to remove the clothes before wrinkling becomes set. Most machines have a safety switch which stops operation when the door is opened. It will not begin again until the door is closed and the start switch pressed.

So enjoy the sun but don't lift clothes in it. Let durable dryers of sturdy steel dry your clothes for you, simply, easily and thoroughly.

Alternate squares of liver with squares of bacon and broil. Brush with butter or margarine (melted) several times during the broiling.

You can "sour" a cup of sweet milk by adding a tablespoon of lemon juice or vinegar to it. The soured milk can usually replace buttermilk in a recipe.

Members of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority will meet 8:30 p. m. today at Prairie Lanes for a bowling party.

Members of Berger Hospital Guild No. 43 will meet 8 p. m. tomorrow in the guild room at the hospital.

Dear Abby: Long and Short of It!

by Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I wait on tables in a cocktail lounge from three in the afternoon until one o'clock in the morning. I have to wear a skimpy costume on this job. The hours are rough and so are some of the customers, but the pay is better than I could get anywhere else. Some of the men customers think that just because a girl is wearing a revealing costume she isn't respectable and anything goes. I try hard not to be too chummy with the men, but a sourpuss waitress doesn't make much in tips. What can I do? Don't tell me to quit working because I am a divorcee with two children, and I need the dough.

DEAR ABBY: I don't have a very big wardrobe, so my sister and I trade and wear each other's clothes. When I am complimented on something I am wearing, and it isn't mine, what should I say?

DEAR CAROL: If you must work, find a job with shorter hours and longer skirts.

DEAR ABBY: Nate and I have been married for 14 years. We have four children and are very happy. Sunday night he got a long-distance call from Binghamton, New York. We don't know anybody there, so naturally it shook me up. Nate was on the phone for half an hour and all he said was "Uh uh, that's nice," and "Hu uh." When he hung up he said it was some dizzy dame he knew slightly before we were married.

Economical Recipes for Fund-Raising Suppers

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

If your church or club group is scheduling a fund-raising supper and you're on the committee that's going to plan and prepare the menu, today's recipes are worth considering. They're money-makers!

The Tomato-Topped Macaroni and Cheese, which averages out to a cost of about 13 cents a serving, makes a delicious entree. Round it out with a jellied orange-grapefruit-avocado salad. Serve a slice of spice cake for dessert.

The cost of Tuna Macaroni Scallop is slightly higher — about 25 cents a serving. Plan on a jellied beet salad to go with it and, for dessert, devil's food cake.

TOMATO-TOPPED MACARONI AND CHEESE

1/4 c. salt
8 to 12 qts. boiling water
2 lbs. elbow macaroni
1 c. chopped onion
1/4 c. butter or margarine
3/4 c. all-purpose flour
2 tsp. salt, additional
1/2 tsp. pepper
6 c. (1 1/2 qts.) milk
4 medium tomatoes, sliced
8 c. (2 lbs.) grated process Cheddar cheese

Add 1/4 c. salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so water continues to boil. Cook, uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender; drain in colander. (Note: You may cook macaroni in one or more pots, according to sizes available. Use proportion of 4 to 6 qts. water and about 2 tsp. salt to each pound of macaroni.) Meanwhile, cook onion in melted butter until tender. Blend in flour, 2 tsp. salt and pepper. Gradually add milk. Cook and stir until sauce comes to boil. Stir in cheese until melted.

Toss macaroni with cheese sauce. Pour into 4 greased 1 1/2-qt. casseroles. To with tomato slices.

Bake in mod. oven, 350 degrees F., for 15 min. or until thoroughly heated. Makes 24 servings.

TUNA MACARONI SCALLOP

Angry Boy, 14, Held For Burning School

CINCINNATI (AP)—Juvenile authorities are holding a 14-year-old boy for allegedly setting fire to his schoolhouse because he was angry at a teacher. No one was injured, but 80 students had to be evacuated because of the $800 fire March 16.

The youngster was arrested Monday after he admitted to setting three fires at Schroder Junior High School March 16.

Attorneys told the court Monday the settlements amounted to $246,000. Plaintiffs in the suits had sought $1.9 million in all, alleging that use of Richardson-Merrell's drug MER-29 caused scaly skin, loss of hair and eye cataracts. The drug was withdrawn from the market two years ago.

FUND-RAISING SUPPER — A guest serves herself for this buffet meal featuring an economical Tuna Macaroni Scallop. For cooking in quantity at a church or club group event these recipes are money-makers.

12 to 18 qts. boiling water
3 lbs. elbow macaroni
1 c. chopped onion
1/2 c. butter or margarine
4 (1 1/2 oz.) envelopes cream style chicken soup mix
2 (6 oz.) cans sliced mushrooms
1 qt. milk
6 c. grated Cheddar cheese
6 (6 1/2 to 7 oz.) cans tuna, drained
Add salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so water continues to boil. Cook, uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender; drain in colander. (If you cook macaroni in several pots, use 4 to 6 qts. water and 2 tsp. salt to each pound of macaroni.) Meanwhile cook onion in melted butter until tender; stir in soup mix. Drain and measure liquid from mushrooms, adding enough water to make 7 c. liquid. Gradually add to soup mixture, stirring until smooth. Cook and stir until soup mixture comes to boil; simmer 2 min.

Stir in milk and cheese. Heat, stirring, until cheese melts. Toss together macaroni, cheese sauce, tuna and mushrooms.

Turn into 2 greased 4-qt. casseroles. Bake in mod. oven, 350 degrees F., for 15 min. or until thoroughly heated. Garnish with parsley, if desired. Makes 24 servings.

Clothes Dryer Features Many Merits

By ELEANOR ROSS

The average homemaker is said to lift over two tons of wet clothes up to her clothesline every year! That is, if she doesn't enjoy the convenience of a dryer in order to avoid such gymnastics.

Besides the obvious conservation of time and energy, a dryer has many other merits, so much so that it is surprising that many women have to be sold on the idea.

Dryers come in durable enamel-coated, galvanized steel with its non-corrosive steel base, or in a porcelain-on-steel finish. DEAR NERVOUS: Yes, a girl a man knew only slightly could conceivably call him up out of the blue after 14 (or 24!) years. She could have gotten his number from a mutual friend or relative, if you aren't in the book. And don't worry. There are plenty of nuts around.

DEAR ABBY: I don't have a very big wardrobe, so my sister and I trade and wear each other's clothes. When I am complimented on something I am wearing, and it isn't mine, what should I say?

DEAR HONEST: Say, "Thank you". It's not necessary to mention the owner unless you are asked.

Inner Ear Inflammation Labeled Glenn's Ailment

CLEVELAND (AP)—The ailment which has kept Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. hospitalized since Feb. 26 is an inflammation of the inner ear called labyrinthitis, the Cleveland Plain Dealer reported today.

Doctors at the School of Aerospace Medicine, Brooks Air Force Base, Tex., have said Glenn suffers from a disturbance in the equilibrium centers of the inner ear, but the ailment had not been named before.

The copyrighted story in the Plain Dealer quoted Dr. Warren H. Leimbach of Columbus as saying the affliction was diagnosed several weeks ago, before the former astronaut was transferred to the Air Force hospital.

Dr. Leimbach told The Associated Press that he examined Glenn while he was hospitalized in Columbus. He said he had not examined Glenn since the Marine officer was taken to Texas.

Dr. Earl W. Brannon, Glenn's personal physician, has told newsmen in San Antonio that Glenn is recovering slowly and that recovery time for similar cases has ranged from three weeks to six months.

Glenn, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator from Ohio, was injured when he slipped on a bath mat in his Columbus apartment and struck his head in the fall.

Brannon says Glenn suffers from dizzy spells, nausea and ringing in his ears when he gets out of bed. He can compensate for the symptoms by keeping his head turned at a downward angle so he looks toward the floor, the doctor said, but any head movements such as turning the face to one side bring the symptoms back.

The injury was described at first as simply a brain concussion.

Dr. Brannon says the blow just above the left ear apparently damaged the inner ear in an area containing canals filled with fluid. The mechanism of the inner ear helps regulate balance.

The doctor said people suffering inner-ear infections have the same symptoms that Glenn complains of.

Dr. Brannon said Glenn was being given drugs to treat the rare condition. The drugs act to keep down the swelling in the area of the injury.

Glenn's campaign aides say they are confident the former astronaut will be back in Ohio in time to campaign for the May 5 primary.

Cincinnati Drug Firm Settles 5 Lawsuits

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A Cincinnati drug manufacturer, Richardson-Merrell Inc., has settled out of court five personal injury suits that had been scheduled for trial today in U.S. District Court here.

Attorneys told the court Monday the settlements amounted to $246,000. Plaintiffs in the suits had sought $1.9 million in all, alleging that use of Richardson-Merrell's drug MER-29 caused scaly skin, loss of hair and eye cataracts. The drug was withdrawn from the market two years ago.

8 c. (2 lbs.) grated process Cheddar cheese

Add 1/4 c. salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so water continues to boil. Cook, uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender; drain in colander. (Note: You may cook macaroni in one or more pots, according to sizes available. Use proportion of 4 to 6 qts. water and about 2 tsp. salt to each pound of macaroni).

Meanwhile, cook onion in melted butter until tender. Blend in flour, 2 tsp. salt and pepper. Gradually add milk. Cook and stir until sauce comes to boil. Stir in cheese until melted.

Toss macaroni with cheese sauce.

Pour into 4 greased 1 1/2-qt. casseroles. To with tomato slices.

Bake in mod. oven, 350 degrees F., for 15 min. or until thoroughly heated.

Makes 24 servings.

Angry Boy, 14, Held For Burning School

CINCINNATI (AP)—Juvenile authorities are holding a 14-year-old boy for allegedly setting fire to his schoolhouse because he was angry at a teacher. No one was injured, but 80 students had to be evacuated because of the $800 fire March 16.

The youngster was arrested Monday after he admitted to firemen he set three fires at Schroder Junior High School March 16.

Frozen fruit salads are usually made with a base of cream cheese and mayonnaise; they should be frozen until firm and served right away or the fruit will become too hard.

FUND-RAISING SUPPER — A guest serves herself for this buffet meal featuring an economical Tuna Macaroni Scallop. For cooking in quantity at a church or club group event these recipes are money-makers.

12 to 18 qts. boiling water
3 lbs. elbow macaroni
1 c. chopped onion
1/4 c. butter or margarine
4 (1 1/2 oz.) envelopes cream style chicken soup mix
2 (6 oz.) cans sliced mushrooms
1 qt. milk
6 c. grated Cheddar cheese
6 (6 1/2 to 7 oz.) cans tuna, drained

Add salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add macaroni so water continues to boil.

Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender; drain in colander. (If you cook macaroni in several pots, use 4 to 6 qts. water and 2 tsp. salt to each pound of macaroni).

Meanwhile cook onion in melted butter until tender; stir in soup mix.

Drain and measure liquid from mushrooms, adding enough water to make 7 c. liquid. Gradually add to soup mixture, stirring until smooth. Cook and stir until soup mixture comes to boil; simmer 2 min.

Stir in milk and cheese. Heat, stirring, until cheese melts.

Toss together macaroni, cheese sauce, tuna and mushrooms.

Turn into 2 greased 4-qt. casseroles.

Bake in mod. oven, 350 degrees F., for 15 min. or until thoroughly heated. Garnish with parsley, if desired.

Makes 24 servings.

39 Standardbreds Training At Pickaway Fairgrounds

A total of 39 standardbred racing horses are currently in training at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds track.

City and county harness enthusiasts will get their first look at these horses April 19 when the annual Spring Harness Matinee takes place 1:30 p. m. at the Fairgrounds.

Trainers at the local track this season are Jim Arledge, Wayne Martin, Ralph Jones, P. F. Markley, Forrest Short and Jim Mace.

Gene Young and Tom Dorn, Circleville, are training their Jerriann, a 4-year-old pacer.

ARLEDGE has the largest string with 13 under his care. Four are owned by his father, W. H. Arledge, Circleville, four by Dick and Joe Asher of New Holland, three by the V&M Stable of Lancaster, one by William Neal and one by Arledge himself.

Of the quartet owned by the Asher brothers, Berrytime has the best record with a mark of 2:00.1, while Great Berry has gone the mile in 2:00.4. Worthy Berry and Miss Berrytime are 2-year-olds and will be racing for the first time this year.

William Arledge's steeds include Hideaway Pat, 2:02.4, and Dudley's Dandy, 2:08.2. Star Via Jean and Nolan, a pair of trotters, are the other two head.

Owned by the V&M Stable are Dixie Crystal, Rober Abbe and Jim Abbe. William Neal is the owner of Lib Carol and Arledge owns Success Frost, a 2-year-old.

Forrest Short's stable numbers an even dozen. Included in this group are Erla Creed and Jet Pride, owned by George A. Fissell of Circleville and Sandra Creed, owned by Mrs. George A. Fissell.

For Martin J. O'Brien of Cleveland, he is working Dr. Pieker, Irish Sis and Titan Planet. Horses owned by Marion Moats of Mt. Sterling and under the care of Short are Flip Haven, Fluffy Cloud, Hi-Lo's Misty.

THREE of the horses are co-owned by Forrest and Harry Short. They are Royal J. Win, Demon Ann and Goldin Win.

The best times belong to Hi-Lo's Misty and Goldin Win, both with a mark of 2:04.

All five horses being trained by Wayne Martin belong to him. They are Marty's Demon, Trina Lee, Cherry Pilot, Dana Chief and Jerry Chief. Trina Lee has a mark of 2:05.

Ralph Jones is training Turpent Way and Counsel Lass for Frank Bowling of Circleville, and Little Lad for Mrs. Bowling.

In the P. F. Markley Stable are Tactful Girl, an aged pacer with mark of 2:07 and Royal Gloria, a 4-year-old trotter. Both are owned by Markley.

Sore Arm No Problem To Donovan

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dick Donovan, the Cleveland Indians' veteran right-hander, is bothered by a sore arm, but he doesn't seem to be worried about it.

He said his arm ached slightly while hurling for the Tribe's "B" squad against Tacoma at Casa Grande Sunday but not enough to affect his pitching. He gave up two hits in three innings.

Young Tommy John, who is hoping to be able to provide the Indians with the left-handed pitching help they need, wasn't impressive during a five-inning stint Monday as Cleveland rallied to beat the Chicago Cubs, 6-5, at Mesa.

Making his third springtime appearance, the 21-year-old rookie gave up eight hits—four of them doubles—and was charged with five runs.

However, the weather might have had something to do with his performance. Rain fell during much of the game, the wind was blowing and the temperature was below 60.

Veterans Don McMahon, Gary Bell, Ted Abernathy and Pedro Ramos followed John, each pitching one inning, and shut out the Cubs with one hit.

The victory, the Indians' sixth in 16 Cactus League games, snapped the Cubs' string of seven straight home field triumphs.

Senate Prober Questions Future of Boxing Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., opening an investigation into alleged shady deals in boxing, warned today "time is running out for the boxing industry unless something is done" to end "general public disrespect and distrust."

Hart's comments were in a prepared statement as his Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee opened three days of hearings on circumstances surrounding the controversial technical knockout Feb. 25 by which Cassius Clay won the heavyweight title from Sonny Liston.

"There has been a growing suspicion," Hart said, "that the sport is controlled by hidden manipulators and that the men who go into the ring and take the knocks are the ones who profit least from the gate receipts."

Hart said the first interest of the hearings will be a $50,000 promotional fee paid Clay before the title bout by Intercontinental Promotions Inc., in which Liston is a stockholder, for the exclusive right to promote Clay's next fight and to pick his opponent.

This $50,000 promotional fee has figured in efforts by Ed Lassman, president of the World Boxing Association, to take the heavyweight title away from Clay.

Lassman, scheduled to appear before the subcommittee Thursday, wants to take away the title temporarily and return it in five months if Clay has a satisfactory explanation for the promotional fee from Intercontinental Promotions and his general behavior improves.

The New York and Illinois state athletic commissions have said they will continue to recognize Clay as champion.

Lassman is taking a poll of the WBA's 20-member executive committee to declare the title vacant.

Skowron Eyes Role in Cellar

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Skowron has been plagued with problems throughout his baseball career. Now he's with the Washington Senators.

He got there the hard way, starting with the then world champion New York Yankees, stopping off at the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers and finally tumbling to the cellar-dwelling Senators.

Despite the change in atmosphere, the 33-year-old first baseman is willing to accept his fate, at least for the present. He feels if he can get off to a good start this season, he can help not only the Senators but also himself.

His performances of the past two days haven't hurt that thinking any. He slugged a pair of two-run homers Monday in powering Washington to a 7-3 triumph against the Dodgers. That gave him three home runs in two games following his return to the line-up.

Skowron, whose injury record reads like the AMA journal, sat out six days with a bad back, his most persistent ailment.

The appearance of the 6-foot, 197-pound veteran against the Dodgers was the first since he starred for them in their World Series sweep of the Yankees last fall. He had five hits, including a home run, for a .385 average and knocked in three runs in the Series.

That showing was almost as surprising as the Dodgers' four-game rout. During the regular season Skowron batted .203, hit four homers and drove in 19 runs, all career lows. He played sporadically, being used as a pinch hitter much of the time.

Whereas injuries had hampered him in previous years, marital difficulties interfered with his playing in 1963. His ordeal was punctuated by a dramatic flight to his New Jersey home in the middle of spring training. Legal action followed.

He'll settle for some good, dramatic batting action this year.

In other baseball developments, mammoth Frank Howard said Monday night he wants to sign a Los Angeles Dodgers' contract and start playing.

"I want to play," said Howard, who previously had talked of retiring. "I'm ready to go down to Vero Beach, Fla."

Jim Umbricht's situation is not so good. Houston's right-handed pitcher, it was disclosed, has been hospitalized since March 16. No one would say what is wrong with Umbricht, but he underwent a cancer operation a year ago.

He made an amazing comeback, though, compiling a 2.61 earned run average in 76 innings.

In exhibition action, Pittsburgh trounced the New York Yankees 9-2, Houston bombed St. Louis 11-2, San Francisco defeated Boston 7-4, Cincinnati drubbed Kansas City 11-3, the Chicago White Sox knocked off Philadelphia 9-2, the New York Mets nipped Minnesota 7-6, Cleveland edged the Chicago Cubs 6-5 and Milwaukee beat Detroit 4-3.

Houston Pitcher Back in Hospital

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Colt pitcher Jim Umbricht is back in the hospital, a year after having a malignant tumor removed.

It was learned Monday he has been hospitalized since March 16. An official of the National League club said there was an agreement the Colts, the doctors and the family would say nothing about his condition.

Spokesmen at the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute declined to give any information on the big right-hander's condition, other than the date he was admitted.

Jackson Has 9 Veterans Returning

Turnout of 18 Considered Good By Wildcat Mentor

The Jackson High School baseball team will have nine returning lettermen this year, including a pair of left-handed pitchers.

There are 18 candidates vying for spots on the team. It marks one of the best turnouts ever at Jackson, according to Paul Hoskins, Wildcat coach.

Meredith O'Dell and Ed Martindale are the two southpaw hurlers and will share the bulk of the mound duties for the Wildcats.

At catcher, Hoskins has veteran Dwight Whaley returning, making these two positions among the strongest on the team. Carey Blankenship, a freshman with Little League experience, will back up Whaley behind the plate.

HOSKINS is anticipating an improved infield and outfield, too.

Bruce List will return to his first base position. Ray Mowery will be back at second and Dickie Overly will return to third.

At shortstop the Wildcats have Kenny Martindale, a freshman with a lot of promise.

Dick Hix, another returnee, promises to make a good utility man for the Wildcats. He can fill in at short or at first, Hoskins says, and also has enough speed to handle an outfield position.

Two sophomores with some experience are Gene Justus and Brad Thompson.

Out for the first time are Ronnie Justus, Kenny Casto, Thomas Selva and Dale Lanman, all freshmen. Two seniors who did not compete last year but are seeking a position in the starting lineup are Roger Ward and Earl Hanson.

BESIDES the Pickaway County League Schedule, Hoskins hopes to have games with Kingston, Piketon and other teams that are interested.

Jackson baseball facilities are in good shape, the Wildcat mentor reports.

The back stop was renovated last year and the pitching mound was rebuilt this spring.

Hutchinson Undecided On Outfielder

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—There is a question about what the Cincinnati outfield will look like—but it's not the kind of a problem that makes Reds' fans bite their nails.

This is now Manager Fred Hutchinson views the matter: "There's no question about Vada Pinson being one of the best of the game in centerfield. An the same goes for Frank Robinson. But I still have an open mind as to who will be my third starting outfielder."

"If (Chico) Ruiz wins the third base job, it will probably be Tommy Harper. If not, it could be Mel Queen or Bob Skinner or Deron Johnson. All have looked good this spring."

Queen and Johnson looked good Monday, too, as both hit home runs in the Reds' 11-3 triumph over Kansas City at Bradenton. Hal Smith, who is bidding for the No. 2 catcher's job, also hit a homer good for three runs.

Johnson, who has seen little action with the "A" squad, got two other hits and drove in two runs. Queen hit a single in addition to his homer, bringing his batting average for nine games up to .360.

Upper Lansdowne Opening Will Depend on Weather

The opening of Upper Lansdowne Golf Links is dependent on the weather, according to Donald B. Collins, owner and manager.

Collins is hoping for a mid-May opening, but notes it might be as late as June 1 before grass on the fairways has a good enough start to withstand heavy traffic.

Heavy rains this month caused some damage, eroding numerous tiny gullies in the fairways.

The greens and tees, however, came through the winter in fine shape, the golf course owner reported.

TINY sprouts of grass are beginning to appear on the fairways. Within a short time, Collins expects to be able to tell what areas will need reseeding.

When the nine-hole course opens, it will give Pickaway County its second links. It will be operated as a semi-private concern.

Collins plans to hold an official opening day after the course is opened to the public. No definite date has been set, but he is thinking in terms of late June or early July.

Dick Hix, another returnee, promises to make a good utility man for the Wildcats. He can fill in at short or at first, Hoskins says, and also has enough speed to handle an outfield position.

Two sophomores with some experience are Gene Justus and Brad Thompson.

Out for the first time are Ronnie Justus, Kenny Casto, Thomas Selva and Dale Lamm, all freshmen. Two seniors who did not compete last year but are seeking a position in the starting lineup are Roger Ward and Earl Hanson.

BESIDES the Pickaway County League Schedule, Hoskins hopes to have games with Kingston, Piketon and other teams that are interested.

Jackson baseball facilities are in good shape, the Wildcat mentor reports.

The back stop was renovated last year and the pitching mound was rebuilt this spring.

Roger Craig Unashamed Of Loss List

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Roger Craig, baseball's biggest loser for the last two years, was telling about a heckler.

"It was at a banquet this winter," the St. Louis right-hander said. "This guy got up and he was riding me pretty good. Heck, I'm not ashamed of the way I pitched and I couldn't stand this guy taking me apart. So I just got up and said:

"You know, I'm the only two-time 20-game loser who got a raise both years."

"That quieted him down." Craig uses the story to illustrate how he kept his head while he was pitching for the New York Mets. In 1962 Craig had a 10-24 record. Then things got worse. Last season he was 5-22, tying a National League record by losing 18 games in a row and tying a major league record by losing five 1-0 games.

He came to the Cardinals in a trade for outfielder George Altman.

76ers Take Fresh Aim At Royals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia 76ers get another crack at stopping Oscar Robertson tonight as they meet the Cincinnati Royals in the second of the Eastern Division semifinal playoffs in the National Basketball Association.

The 76ers have to win tonight or the Royals will be in a position to close the best-of-five series on their home court Wednesday night.

When the teams met in the first of the playoff series Sunday night, Robertson showed why he was voted the NBA's most valuable player. He scored 31 points in leading the Royals to a 127-102 victory and a 1-0 lead in the series.

In the Western Division semifinal playoffs, the St. Louis Hawks try to make it three straight against the Los Angeles Lakers Wednesday in Los Angeles.

The Hawks outscored the Lakers 34-23 in the last quarter of their game Sunday night and won 106-90 for a commanding 3-0 lead in their best-of-five set.

For the 76ers, the task will be to hold Robertson down.

They tried speed and they tried size Sunday without much success.

Coach Dolph Schayes used guards Paul Neumann, Hal Greer, Al Bianchi and Larry Costello, and forwards Chet Walker and Dave Gambee on him.

Robertson also had 16 assists and helped shut off the 76ers of offense at a critical stage.

Bobo Olson Set For Bout on TV

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last time Bobo Olson was seen in a national television fight was when he was knocked out by Doug Jones in the sixth round in Chicago Aug. 31, 1960.

Now the 33-year-old Hawaiian, unbeaten in his last seven fights, is bidding for a shot at the light heavyweight crown.

He will be risking the chance Friday night when he meets Wayne Thornton, 24-year-old contender from Fresno, Calif., in the television fight of the week at San Francisco.

The 10-round will be telecast nationally by ABC-TV. Starting time is 10 p.m., EST.

Olson, now ranked sixth contender, has a 86-13-2 record, including 40 knockouts. Thornton, ranked fifth, has a 29-5-1 record. He has scored 18 knockouts.

Top Pro Cage Coach Would Rather Teach

BOSTON (AP)—Like to be the most successful coach in professional basketball history?

Arnold (Red) Auerbach—self-assured owner of the label—would rather be a schoolteacher. Driven by a fierce desire for success, the cigar-smoking whip hand behind Boston's six National Basketball Association championships is many things to many people. He is called a dictator, tactical genius, referee-baiter, frustrated actor.

But a teacher? Never. That's how little is known about the man whose 18 NBA seasons, nearly 1,400 games and over 890 victories are all-time records.

"I love teaching," Red confesses from under the fading, receding fringe of hair. "If the salaries had been somewhere near comparable I never would have left the classroom."

The tough taskmaster was waiving a piece of chalk instead of the tightly-rolled program—now his trademark—when World War II broke out.

"I made $1,900 that year," Auerbach says. Some of the students picked up $2,700 working part-time in the shipyards. When I returned after the war I was offered step-up raises for the time I was away and a bonus. It came to $2,900.

"I just couldn't make a go of it."

So Auerbach turned to the game he played at George Washington University.

It's no accident the two longest winning streaks in the NBA—17 games each at Washington in 1946 and with the Celtics in 1959—were put together under Auerbach's direction.

At 47 he still demands unflinching pride, teamwork, hustle and obedience from his players.

The payoff, in part, has been eight straight Eastern Division titles. The Celtics recently wrapped up the latest crown with younger Cincinnati pushing hard from behind.

Although champion-maker Bill Russell has been the Most Valuable Player choice of his fellow NBA athletes several times, there are no super-stars with gaudy averages on the Celtics. Only one Boston player, John Havlicek, currently is in the league's top 10 scorers.

"What do I care about statistics and points? You give me the championships and you can have the All Star teams," Auerbach says.

Some Ohio Workers Paid To Go Hunting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some labor union locals have contracted with Ohio employers to make opening day of a hunting season a paid holiday, the Ohio Division of Wildlife reports.

Usually in such cases, says division chief Dale E. Whitesell, the workers decide to take the hunting day in place of some other holiday.

"This action indicates the growing importance of hunting as recreation for industrial workers," Whitesell says. "It is a tribute to the sport."

Pre-spring fishermen have been reported doing "all right," as the Wildlife Division puts it, with suckers and channel cats at Indian Lake, Logan County; bullheads at Buckeye Lake, Fairfield-Licking counties, and channel cats at Hoover Reservoir, Franklin-Delaware counties.

Muskie fishermen might try Hoover; Knox Lake, Knox County; Dillon Reservoir, Muskingum County; Hargus Lake, Pickaway County, and the Olen-tangy River below the Delaware wildlife area, division experts say.

Ray Riethmiller, District 1 (Central Ohio) fish management supervisor, advises anglers they needn't pay attention to temperatures since muskies feed most of the year but bite best in the cool seasons.

When the weather warms up, he adds, there will be good fishing for crappies because they then move into shallow water.

The Department of Natural Resources will take bids April 6 for construction of an additional camping facility at Indian Lake State Park in Logan County. It will be located in the Chippewa area, several miles north of another campground in the Black Hawk area.

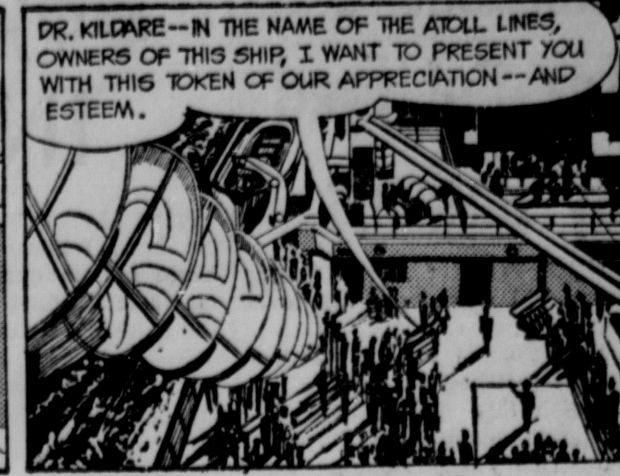

The project will consist of 130 campsites and is expected to be completed and in use by Aug. 1.

Northeast Ohio sportsmen will have a new 1,500-acre impoundment for public fishing early in May, the Wildlife Division reports. It is the LaDue Reservoir in Auburn Township, Geauga County, a source of Akron's water supply.

Shore fishing will be forbidden but anglers will be able to rent 100 or more city-owned boats. No private boats will be permitted.

Willie McCovey led the San Francisco Giants last year with 26 home runs at Candlestick Park. He drove in 62 runs at home.

Roger Craig Unashamed Of Loss List

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Roger Craig, baseball's biggest loser for the last two years, was telling about a heckler.

"It was at a banquet this winter," the St. Louis right-hander said. "This guy got up and he was riding me pretty good. Heck, I'm not ashamed of the way I pitched and I couldn't stand this guy taking me apart. So I just got up and said:

"You know, I'm the only two-time 20-game loser who got a raise both years."

"That quieted him down." Craig uses the story to illustrate how he kept his head while he was pitching for the New York Mets. In 1962 Craig had a 10-24 record. Then things got worse. Last season he was 5-22, tying a National League record by losing 18 games in a row and tying a major league record by losing five 1-0 games.

He came to the Cardinals in a trade for outfielder George Altman.

76ers Take Fresh Aim At Royals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia 76ers get another crack at stopping Oscar Robertson tonight as they meet the Cincinnati Royals in the second of the Eastern Division semifinal playoffs in the National Basketball Association.

The 76ers have to win tonight or the Royals will be in a position to close the best-of-five series on their home court Wednesday night.

When the teams met in the first of the playoff series Sunday night, Robertson showed why he was voted the NBA's most valuable player. He scored 31 points in leading the Royals to a 127-102 victory and a 1-0 lead in the series.

In the Western Division semifinal playoffs, the St. Louis Hawks try to make it three straight against the Los Angeles Lakers Wednesday in Los Angeles.

The Hawks outscored the Lakers 34-23 in the last quarter of their game Sunday night and won 106-90 for a commanding 3-0 lead in their best-of-five set.

For the 76ers, the task will be to hold Robertson down.

They tried speed and they tried size Sunday without much success.

Coach Dolph Schayes used guards Paul Neumann, Hal Greer, Al Bianchi and Larry Costello, and forwards Chet Walker and Dave Gambee on him.

Robertson also had 16 assists and helped shut off the 76ers' offense at a critical stage.

Bobo Olson Set For Bout on TV

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The last time Bobo Olson was seen in a national television fight was when he was knocked out by Doug Jones in the sixth round in Chicago Aug. 31, 1960.

Now the 33-year-old Hawaiian, unbeaten in his last seven fights, is bidding for a shot at the light heavyweight crown.

He will be risking the chance Friday night when he meets Wayne Thornton, 24-year-old contender from Fresno, Calif., in the television fight of the week at San Francisco.

The 10-round will be telecast nationally by ABC-TV. Starting time is 10 p.m., EST.

Olson, now ranked sixth contender, has a 86-13-2 record, including 40 knockouts. Thornton, ranked fifth, has a 29-5-1 record. He has scored 18 knockouts.

Consumer's Tax Cut Eyed By Business

NEW YORK (AP) — Spring fever will clash with tax fever this year.

Businessmen are counting on consumers being anything but sluggish this spring, thanks to larger take-home pay. So, many industries are raising their goals for production and sales, with an eye on reaping the benefits they see in the federal income tax cut. Factory activity and retail promotion should be increased.

And a number of companies are jumping on the tax cut bandwagon with announcements of expansion plans that would furnish more jobs. Spring fever will be hard put to compete with such optimistic fervor.

Investment bankers, securities dealers and some state legislatures are watching the tax fever, too. Dealers in government and corporate bonds know that the federal government will be running a big deficit this year and have to borrow more, thanks in part to smaller tax collections. In the spring months the deficit will be the product of the 1964 spending budget. Next fall when tax collections will be slowest, there will be the 1965 fiscal year's budget deficit, heralded as being smaller than the last one, but still requiring the Treasury to borrow more money, unless tax returns build up faster than now expected.

Corporations planning to raise outside funds to finance their expansion plans may be coming into the securities market at the same time. Together federal government and corporate borrowing could be considerable and have a noticeable effect on money market conditions and rates. State and local government borrowing tends to rise each year. If a housing boom adds to the demand for mortgages, the pressure will be that much the greater.

Tax fever takes another form in many state legislatures. At least 18 states have already passed or are considering some 60 tax changes this year. Unlike Congress, the state law making bodies' ideas are mostly for increases rather than cuts.

Contact Lens 'Danger' Is Clarified

BOSTON (AP) — Concern over possible irritation or even blindness from contact lenses appear to boil down to two points: (a) if they caused no trouble after the first 36 days, they probably won't ever, and (b) the lenses to be concerned about are foreign imports or "off-beat" products.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has been investigating the lenses and whether they release methacrylic acid.

Dr. William Stone Jr. of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, was quoted by F&D as saying 14 persons have been blinded or become partly blinded because of contact lenses.

Other eye specialists say that following the doctor's hygienic instructions will eliminate danger. Being fitted by qualified practitioners who use only quality lenses also is recommended. Finally, they say that any patient who has worn the lenses more than 36 days has nothing to fear.

Local Auxiliary OSP Will Attend State Convention

Nine members of the Pickaway group of the State Highway Patrol Auxiliary will travel to Columbus April 4 for the annual state meeting.

Auxiliary Captain Aulten Carter, Williamsport, head of the local group, made the announcement today in anticipation of one of the largest turnouts ever to attend this annual two-day event.

Serving without remuneration of any kind, these Legionnaire Auxiliary Highway Patrolmen contribute nearly 200,000 hours yearly with regular Highway Patrol officers in both routine and emergency operations.

Patrol Sgt. S. L. Adomaitis, commanding officer of the Circleville Post and supervisor of the local Auxiliary group, pointed out that auxiliary members attend the two-day meeting at their own expense. He expressed gratification at the interest shown by members here and in the turnout for the annual meeting.

Ohio Solon Is Cool On Foreign Aid Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—"If this goes through, just count me out. I won't buy that," Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, says of a proposal for a continuing authorization of the foreign aid program's military assistance feature.

Hays was critical of what he called a "blank check" as he disagreed with Secretary of State Dean Rusk during a House Foreign Affairs Committee hearing Monday. Rusk testified "we would come back to the committee each year to justify the program" but that didn't satisfy Hays.

Lamb Producers Are Urged To Maintain Full Records

Lamb producers were reminded today of the importance of keeping complete records to support their applications for payment under the national wool program. The same caution applies to wool growers.

Galen D. Mowery, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Pickaway County Committee, emphasized that a lamb producer will be eligible to receive a payment on resale of the lambs still unshorn or on the sale of wool removed from such lambs if his program application either (1) shows the number of head and liveweight of unshorn lambs purchased or (2) contains a statement that he purchased "none."

A complete report on purchases of unshorn lambs is necessary, the chairman declared, regardless of whether the lambs were bought for replacement or for subsequent sale, and regardless of whether or not the seller was furnished with a sales document enabling him to apply for payment on the sale of the unshorn lambs.

Likewise, the shorn wool application calls for figures on the number and liveweight of the lambs purchased even if any of the lambs are later sheared instead of being sold as unshorn lambs.

Mowery explained that the lamb payments are made under the wool program to encourage the normal marketing of lambs with the wool on and to prevent unusual shearing of lambs. The payments are determined on the basis of the shorn wool incentive payment, the average weight of wool per hundred pounds of lamb, and the value

Westfall Unit Aims Athletic Field Plans

Members of the Westfall Booster Club heard an outline by Ned Young, Circleville Electric contractor, on different light systems for a football field alone or with a baseball diamond adjacent.

Costs of the lighting systems ranged from $8,000 to $12,000.

Nominations to the board of directors will be presented at the May general membership meeting. Board members whose terms expire are Harry Morris, Perry; Dale Smith, Monroe; Carl Schein, Deer-creek; Earl Liff, Darby; Paul Thompson, Jackson; Christina Sines, Muhlenberg.

A motion was submitted and passed that the club purchase a time deposit certificate in the amount of $1,500 for six months. The balance in the treasury was reported at $2,052.54.

A UNANIMOUS vote determined both band and sports be included in the aim of bond sales. A motion was passed that the club raft an initiate a bond sale.

Names on the bond committee were Delbert Remy, Dale Smith and Edwin Bauhan. The bonds are to be ready for sale by the April meeting.

The board of directors will meet at Monroe School 8 p. m. April 15.

Business Briefs

General Electric has announced the reduction of prices of three lines of lamps for general lighting in commerce and industry.

Prices of 40-watt fluorescent lamps are being decreased an average of six per cent, effective Mar. 25.

Quartzline incandescent lamp prices are being reduced an average of 5.8 per cent on April 1.

Prices of mercury lamps are being reduced April 1 for 38 high-volume types and increased for 18 low-volume, special types. The over-all effect is a decrease of 22 per cent.

Thomas M. Wallace, general manager of General Electric's Large Lamp Department, attributed the reductions to economies achieved in production. "General Electric, together with its lamp distributors, is pleased to offer these improved lamp values to help fulfill customers' desires and need," he said.

Consumer's Tax Cut Eyed By Business

NEW YORK (AP) — Spring fever will clash with tax fever this year.

Businessmen are counting on consumers being anything but sluggish this spring, thanks to larger take-home pay. So, many industries are raising their goals for production and sales, with an eye on reaping the benefits they see in the federal income tax cut. Factory activity and retail promotion should be increased.

And a number of companies are jumping on the tax cut bandwagon with announcements of expansion plans that would furnish more jobs. Spring fever will be hard put to compete with such optimistic fervor.

Investment bankers, securities dealers and some state legislatures are watching the tax fever, too. Dealers in government and corporate bonds know that the federal government will be running a big deficit this year and have to borrow more, thanks in part to smaller tax collections. In the spring months the deficit will be the product of the 1964 spending budget. Next fall when tax collections will be slowest, there will be the 1965 fiscal year's budget deficit, heralded as being smaller than the last one, but still requiring the Treasury to borrow more money, unless tax returns build up faster than now expected.

Corporations planning to raise outside funds to finance their expansion plans may be coming into the securities market at the same time. Together federal government and corporate borrowing could be considerable and have a noticeable effect on money market conditions and rates. State and local government borrowing tends to rise each year. If a housing boom adds to the demand for mortgages, the pressure will be that much greater.

Tax fever takes another form in many state legislatures. At least 18 states have already passed or are considering some 60 tax changes this year. Unlike Congress, the state law making bodies' ideas are mostly for increases rather than cuts.

Contact Lens 'Danger' Is Clarified

BOSTON (AP) — Concern over possible irritation or even blindness from contact lenses appear to boil down to two points: (a) if they caused no trouble after the first 36 days, they probably won't ever, and (b) the lenses to be concerned about are foreign imports or "off-beat" products.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has been investigating the lenses and whether they release methacrylic acid.

Dr. William Stone Jr. of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, was quoted by F&D as saying 14 persons have been blinded or become partly blinded because of contact lenses.

Other eye specialists say that following the doctor's hygienic instructions will eliminate danger. Being fitted by qualified practitioners who use only quality lenses also is recommended. Finally, they say that any patient who has worn the lenses more than 36 days has nothing to fear.

The payments are determined on the basis of the shorn wool incentive payment, the average weight of wool per hundred pounds of lamb, and the value of lamb wool in relation to shorn wool.

Lamb payments are made only on lambs which a producer has owned for 30 days or more, and the amount of payment is based on weight gain of the lambs during the seller's ownership. A complete report on the number and liveweight of any unshorn lambs purchased is needed, therefore, in order to determine the necessary deductions from purchasers' payments equal to the amount of payment due the prior owner on the liveweight of unshorn lambs sold.
